MRS. AGATHA G. PATTERSON DIES AFTER LONG FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Succumbs at 4 o'clock This Morning to Heart Disease and Complications

A PIONEER OF CITY

Widely Known Throughout the Northwest For Ability as Hostess and Business Woman

Mrs. Agatha G. Patterson, wife of E. G. Patterson, died this morning at 4 o'clock in their apartment in the McKenzie hotel, after a long battle against heart trouble and consequent complications which had placed her in a serious condition for the last seven months. Mrs. Patterson had suffered greatly during her illness, but the last hours were peaceful, she being semi-conscious much of the time. Mrs. Patterson was 56 years of age.

The body will lie in state in the Patterson apartments in the McKenzie hotel Friday. Funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday from St. Mary's Catholic church.

Mrs. Patterson had been falling in health for the last ten years. Seven months ago her condition became serious, and she was confined to her bed. Dr. William East, Chicago heart specialist, was brought to Bismarck in June, and a little later Mrs. Patterson was taken to Chicago for treatment, accompanied by a physician and a trained nurse. At times it appeared she would recover but her condition became aggravated and she desired to return to her home in Bismarck. Dr. C. E. Stuckhouse of this city, a nurse and Mr. Patterson, carefully attended her on the return trip a few weeks ago. Mrs. Patterson again seemed better at times for brief spells but recently it became apparent that medical science could not cure her. During all of the time of her illness Mrs. Patterson was constantly at her bedside, both in Chicago and Bismarck. When in Chicago Mrs. Patterson called in six of the leading specialists of the country. Mrs. Patterson during her illness bore great pain with fortitude.

A few days ago Mrs. Patterson began to sink rapidly. The heart trouble from which she suffered was attended by high blood pressure and other complications.

Born in Minnesota

Mrs. Agatha G. Patterson, daughter of William and Bridget Slattery, was born in Wahabash, Minnesota, December 7, 1866. She was married to Edward G. Patterson in St. Paul in 1886. One child was born, Sadie May, on July 24, 1893. The death of the child in August, 1899, brought great sorrow to Mr. and Mrs. Patterson. It was their only child.

Mrs. Patterson was known as a woman of remarkable energy and business ability. She was active in social and civic affairs for many years in Bismarck, and took an active part in the management of the Patterson hotel properties.

Mrs. Patterson was postmistress of Bismarck from 1896 until 1915. She was appointed by President McKinley, by President Roosevelt twice, and by President Taft, and resigned the position while Woodrow Wilson was president after the office was moved into the new postoffice building. At the April convention of the North Dakota postmasters convention in Bismarck this year, Mrs. Patterson was voted a life member and resolutions expressing sympathy to her in her illness were adopted.

Displayed Ability

During the big fire of 1898, Mrs. Patterson displayed the executive ability for which she was widely known. The postoffice was burned. At 8:30 in the evening, Mrs. Patterson caused a temporary postoffice to be opened in the old Sheridan House, mail was overhauled, tied in packages for the different business houses, banks, the state capital and other institutions and was ready for delivery over planks and barrels with but a delay of 25 minutes from the regulation time. The loss to the postoffice was reduced to a minimum and mail was saved from the boxes.

Mrs. Patterson was one of the pioneers of Bismarck, it having been a small community, though widely noted when she came here. Mr. Patterson also came to Bismarck as a very young man. His first venture in the hotel business was when he and E. S. Allen took over the Sheridan House, September 1, 1893. After a year Mr. Allen was elected states attorney and sold his interest to Mr. Patterson. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson conducted the Sheridan House on the site of the present Northern Pacific depot until it was moved to the corner of Main and Fifth streets and became the Northwest. They conducted the Northwest hotel, and made it one of the leading hotels of the state. The Soo hotel was built later and the McKenzie about 19 years ago.

During her activity in the McKenzie hotel, and in connection with other Patterson hotels, Mrs. Patterson was very thorough. She attended many hotel conventions and traveled extensively, investigating all of the different branches of the hotel business and constantly seeking improvement.

COUNT TOLSTOY WILL LECTURE TO TEACHERS

Noted Russian and Son of One of World's Greatest Authors Is Coming Here

SPEAKS NOVEMBER 22

Count Ilya Tolstoy, son of the great Russian writer, Leo Tolstoy, and himself a writer and lecturer of note, will address the North Dakota Education Association at its annual convention here. He will speak the night of November 22. The speaker is preceded by the Bismarck Association of Commerce as a compliment to the teachers' convention, and Judge A. M. Christensen, chairman of the committee, announced today that Count Tolstoy would be obtained.

Count Tolstoy is announced as the greatest living authority on Russia. During his tour of the United States he has been booked to speak before many of the largest Universities in the United States on the subjects of "The True Russia" and "War and Peace."

Being himself a product of the true Russia, the son of Russia's most famous and one of the world's greatest authors and philosophers, Leo Tolstoy, Count Tolstoy will give an impartial analysis of the Russian situation, as is announced. Count Tolstoy has lived both the life of a farmer and the life of a nobleman in Russia. He is intensely opposed to the present Bolshevik regime in Russia.

Count Tolstoy also gives dramatic readings of the plays of Leo Tolstoy. He is said to exert a profound effect on his audiences. The committee believes it is fortunate in obtaining a distinguished lecturer for the teachers' convention. The local A. C. of C. also as a complement to the teachers, has secured Thomas Chalmers, baritone of the Metropolitan Grand Opera House, New York, to give a concert here.

BANDIT HUNT BEING MADE IN SO. DAKOTA

Seek Bandits Who Robbed First National Bank of Groton and Wounded One

Groton, S. D., Nov. 7.—Authorities of various towns in this section of South Dakota were searching today for four bandits which held up the first National Bank late yesterday and escaped with $10,000 after they had dropped $64,000 cash and currency, part of their loot, in the street here. The robbers were last seen 10 miles west of Apolton traveling south. One of them is believed to have been wounded. He was shot by a proprietor of a soft drink parlor and forced to drop most of his loot as he was boarding an automobile to flee with three other men. Picking at random the bandits shot William Cook, manager of a cooperative elevator company at Erney as he came down the stairs of the bank building. He was wounded in the hand. In their flight the robbers stopped twice to commandeer other automobiles when their machine became disabled.

LARGE SHEEP SHIPMENT. Washburn, Nov. 7.—H. N. Boreman of Iowa, took off a freight train here about 1,200 head of sheep, which he had bought in Montana, and which he took to his ranch south of Merced.

Two Streams Moving Through West—One Coming, One Going, Says Writer

OUGHT TO BE WARNED

Governor Nestos, Commenting in Letter, Urges People to Investigate Before Going

There are two streams of people moving through the west at this time, says a North Dakota citizen who has been spending a few months in the Rocky Mountain Region in a letter to Governor Nestos. One of these is a stream going west, of people from the northwestern, central and northeastern states seeking a promised land in Oregon, California and Washington, the other stream is heading eastward and consists of those who in the past year have moved to California and other states, have been disappointed and are returning.

"These people have now become disillusioned and undecided by their own experience and rather than join the bread lines that are forming on the coast, they are hurrying back to the communities from which they came," wrote the Governor's informant. "They have discovered that even though farming conditions are hard in North Dakota, South Dakota and Minnesota and other states that they are not any better for the fruit farmer and the cattle farmer, on the average, than they are in the grain areas, and that no matter where they go the only farmer who seems to be getting comfortably is the one who raised a diversity of products so that he practically grows the family living upon his own farm and therefore is reasonably independent of the shifting economic and financial conditions."

The North Dakota writing the Governor said that "our people ought to be warned not to leave North Dakota until they are sure that they are going to find work or better living conditions where they are going" and he declared that if the people had known the truth about conditions either on the coast or in the Dominion of Canada, few would have left Minnesota, South or North Dakota, or Montana. He declared that a careful investigation would satisfy 90 percent of those who are thinking of moving that they would be infinitely better off to continue their life and labors in North Dakota, than to sacrifice their homes, their friends and much of what property they have left, in making a move into another section where conditions are not any better than the conditions from which they are moving.

Governor Nestos endorsed the statements of the North Dakota citizen. "Talk with many others who have come from Canada and from the coast have already convinced me that the statements of this North Dakota citizen are absolutely correct and that 90 percent of those who leave the state of North Dakota to go into these other states or the Dominion of Canada will wish, inside of a year, that they had never left the state of North Dakota and will be anxious to borrow enough money to get back to their old home," said the Governor.

Should Investigate First. "I hope, therefore, that every person who now thinks of leaving the state, first of all, make a careful investigation of conditions in the place to which they intend to move and to find out beforehand whether men or families with the money they possess will really improve their conditions by leaving their old homes in the state of North Dakota. I am confident that if our people would do this, that practically all of those who have been thinking of leaving the state will change their attitude and will continue to stay in North Dakota and struggle with the present conditions until the improvement which is sure to come soon makes things right for the farmers and others in North Dakota. Of course those who have plenty of money can settle anywhere and get along, but even these will find it difficult to secure the right kind of a home in the crowded centers of California or a place where it does not cost them more to live than they can well afford to spend.

"North Dakota is going to come out all right and will do so surprisingly fast. Those who get panicky now and either move from the state or take their money out of the state are good and solvent, as the great majority of our banks are, are defeating their own purpose and helping to make times hard for themselves and others. Merited confidence in the state and a disposition to put your money into, or leave the money already deposited in the banks whose statements show them to be good and dependable, will do much toward improving conditions in the state, will restore confidence, and will make it possible for us to make a genuine improvement and return to a reasonable degree of prosperity in another year."

MERCER LAND SALE IS MADE

Sale of 160 acres of land in northern Mercer county, at $30, was made by C. F. Kellogg, for one of the closed banks for which he is receiver. The farm, north of Krem, has minor improvements on it. It was purchased by Jacob Unterbach, Jr., who was financed in making a $2,500 cash down payment by his father, a pioneer of the Slope country, who has prospered in farming. The elder Mr. Unterbach, in adding his son to buy the farm, reiterated his satisfaction with North Dakota and his faith in the future of the state.

22 KILLED IN POLAND DURING STRIKE RIOTS

Government Claims Socialists Did Not Make Good on Promise For Peace

INFANTRY DISARMED

Many Killed as Cavalry Follows With a Charge to Disburse Big Crowds

(By the Associated Press.) Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 7.—Twenty-two persons have been killed and scores wounded in riots and bombings growing out of the strike of railway workers. The orders occurred despite the agreement of the socialists to call off the strike in return for the government's promise to withdraw the military from the railroads. The most serious riots were at Greatchow, where crowds surrounded and disarmed a company of infantry. The men were rescued in a cavalry charge in which 20 persons were killed. Most of the dead are soldiers, including three officers. Greatchow has been the scene of communist propaganda of a most active sort, directed by outside leaders according to the government. A bomb exploded in Warsaw yesterday in the headquarters of the socialists, killing two persons. The city is alarmed by the disturbance but no further trouble occurred. Police are patrolling the city. The apparent settlement of the strike is attributed to the failure of the socialists and communists to succeed in inciting sufficient disorders and economic disturbances to make a tie-up of the roads effective.

WALTON ASKS U. S. FOR BAN ON HIS TRIAL

Tells Federal Court He Cannot Get Fair Hearing Before Oklahoma Senate

Oklahoma City, Nov. 7.—The federal court of Lawton, Oklahoma, took up today the question of whether the United States government shall intervene to halt the impeachment trial of Governor J. C. Walton. Acting on the executive's charges that he cannot obtain a fair trial before the senate court of impeachment because the legislature and Ku Klux Klan have conspired to remove him from office the court this afternoon will hear Walton's application for a writ of subpoena. Walton's attorneys to show cause why an order restraining the legislature from continuing the trial should not be issued. At the same hour Governor Walton will appear before the senate court here to enter his formal plea to the 22 charges of official misconduct constituting the bill of impeachment against him. The actual trial will begin tomorrow unless a federal court mandate prevents.

Loss By Fire In Two Cities of N. D.

Minot, Nov. 7.—Fires at Lansford and Maxbass last week destroyed the Lansford Undertaking building and the Sawyer Undertaking parlors at the former town and the Imperial Elevator company's loss cannot be definitely ascertained until partial salvaging of the 12,000 bushels of grain that were in it has been completed.

ENGLAND LACKS DENTISTS. London, Nov. 7.—There are 3,000,000 children in England and Wales who need dental treatment, and it has been said recently by an insurance concern that bad teeth are the direct cause of most of the general debility and minor illnesses which exist today. England has only 117 dentists to every million population which is far from enough.

ELECTIONS TO LEAVE PARTIES STATUS SAME

Republicans to Have Majority of 18 in National House, 6 in the Senate

ONE GAINED BY G. O. P.

Many Local Issues Are Voted on Throughout Country in by Elections

(By the Associated Press.) Democrats were elected yesterday in all three states where there were gubernatorial elections—Kentucky, Maryland and Mississippi. Vermont, where the only senatorial contest was held, returned a Republican, Porter H. Dale, who defeated Park Pollard, cousin of President Coolidge. In the seven contests for the house the Democrats won four and the Republicans three, one of the Republican victories being an upset in which former Representative Fairchild defeated his Democratic opponent for the place made vacant by the death of J. Vincent Ganley in the 24th New York district. Party alignment was unchanged in the other congressional elections. The victory of the Democrats in Kentucky, where Rep. William J. Fields superseded Charles I. Dawson represented a swing of the pendulum with which the last election swept Governor Edwin T. Morrow into office. Mr. Fields' majority was decisive and he will have a Democratic legislature to support him. Governor Ritchie, re-elected in Maryland over Alexander Armstrong, Republican, had an increased majority over his first election. E. L. Whitfield, Democrat, had no opposition in Mississippi.

In New York state the Republicans retained control of the general assembly but the Democratic judiciary committee in Manhattan and the Bronx was swept into office overwhelming the Republicans and an independent ticket supported by William Randolph Hearst. The soldier boys apparently was carried and the hydro-electric project beaten.

Local Issues Voted. Local issues were voted on in various sections of the country. Virginia turned down a fifty million dollar bond issue for good roads. Other elected more supported by the Ku Klux Klan in Youngstown, Portsmouth, Akron and several smaller cities. Philadelphia returned Freeland Kendrick, Republican, as mayor by an overwhelming majority. In Illinois Miss Mary M. Bartel, the first woman to be elected to a circuit court judgeship was elected in Cook county. She is a Republican and led the ticket. The Republicans elected 11 and the Democrats nine judges of the superior court.

The New Jersey legislature re-elected the Republican column notwithstanding the vigorous campaign waged by the Democrats. Mayor Ralph, Republican of San Francisco, apparently was re-elected. The result of the senatorial and congressional elections will leave the two houses of Congress with this line-up: House, Republicans, 225; Democrats 205; socialist, one; independent, one; former-labor, one; vacancies, 25; Republican majority 18. The Republican majority in the senate will remain at six.

Married Seven, Goes to Prison. Spokane, Wash., Nov. 7.—Harry L. Roshon, who has confessed that he married seven women in Pacific Coast and middle-western cities without the formality of divorcing any one of them leaves this morning for the state penitentiary at Walla Walla where he will serve a three-year sentence for grand larceny. He pleaded guilty in court here to embezzlement of $7,000 from Mrs. Alma Schneider of Spokane, one of the women, with which he went through the marriage ceremony.

346 Pay Penalty Before Firing Squad in War. London, Nov. 7.—Out of the many millions of men which comprised the British army during the late war only 346 officers and men so failed in their duty as to justify their execution by the firing squad. Three British officers were shot—two for desertion and one for murder. One man was sentenced to death three times, each for desertion. Twice he was reprieved but he could not stand the welter of blood and mad of the trenches so he deserted again and the third time he was shot.

Forty other men, after being sentenced to death were reprieved only to offend again and be shot. In 266 cases the offence against the military code was desertion, though 37 men were executed for cowardice, three for mutiny and two for sleeping on duty. In all, 3,080 death sentences were passed.

HOGS SHIPPED. Steele, Nov. 7.—Tuesday a car of hogs was shipped out of Steele for the Twin City market. Thirty-eight hogs filled the car, and the weight of the cargo was 17,895 pounds, an average of 470 pounds each.

CARRYING WOUNDED AWAY

CHILD IN TERROR AS RESCUE MADE

A cry of terror rent the air near the corner of Main and Fourth streets yesterday afternoon. The clothed form of an infant lay on the street car track with the car bearing down on it. A child stood to one side screaming. A man dashed out from the sidewalk to make the rescue. Motorman Michael O'Connor slapped on the brakes on the street car. The clothed form of an infant—a big doll—was handed back to the little girl who had dropped it on the unknown rescuer. And the little girl's tears vanished and she thanked the unknown and Motorman O'Connor.

SEN. LADD TO SPEAK IN CITY NEXT SUNDAY

Will Deliver Address at Auditorium on Impressions of Russia

United States Senator E. F. Ladd will speak at the Auditorium in Bismarck Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. on impressions of Russia as gained from his recent trip. This was announced this afternoon when a number of local people definitely completed arrangements for the meeting.

Senator Ladd is coming to Bismarck and Mandan on his trip to many cities in the state seeking support in a fight against reduction of the tariff on flax. The Commercial Club in Fargo, after a dinner at which Senator Ladd was a guest, adopted resolutions opposing the reduction.

Senator Ladd recently returned from a long trip in Russia with Senator King of Utah and others. United States Senator E. F. Ladd, who is in North Dakota on a tour, he announced, to gain support in resisting an effort to reduce the tariff on flaxseed, will be entertained at a banquet by the Mandan Commercial Club at Mandan Saturday night. Fifty business men have been invited to the banquet. Senator Ladd is expected to speak at the banquet. Whether he will speak solely upon domestic questions or give observations from his recent trip to Russia has not been announced.

WHEAT RESISTS BUNT AND SMUT. Washington, Nov. 7.—Development of a new variety of winter wheat which is resistant to bunt or smut is announced by the Department of Agriculture. It has been named "Ridit" because it is expected to rid the wheat fields of smut. The variety was developed by Dr. E. F. Ganes of the Washington agricultural experiment station at Pullman, Wash., in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. It was bred through crossing Turkey and Florence varieties, the latter a smut resistant spring wheat from Australia. Ridit has been found better adapted for the more humid regions than for semiarid regions. A few hundred farmers in eastern Washington planted Ridit this fall to give it a more complete trial than it has had in experiments.

Large Enrollment At V. C. Normal

Valley City, Nov. 7.—The Valley City State Teachers college has the largest enrollment of students doing work of college grade it has ever had in any fall quarters of its history. The enrollment in the summer quarters of the past two years has been in excess of this number but the present registration of college students is highly satisfactory for one of the regular quarters. The numbers enrolled, not counting special music students, correspondence students, and the training school, is 624, and of this number 566 are doing work of college grade beyond graduation from a standard four year high school course.

40 TO 60 PCT. BOOST ASKED BY RAILROADS

Petition Presented to State Railroad Commission, Also to Interstate Body

TO SUSPEND RATES

Commission to Postpone Schedules Taking Effect 120 Days to Give Operators a Chance

Railroads operating in North Dakota this afternoon presented to the state railroad commission new schedules of lignite rates, effective December 6, increasing the freight charges on one line hauls 40 to 60 per cent, according to Chairman Frank Millhollan of the commission. Similar petition was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, on inter-state shipments. The commission immediately will suspend the rates for state hauls only for a period of 120 days and will ask similar suspension by the Interstate Commerce Commission on inter-state rates, the chairman said.

The railroads, in their petition, said that their proposed schedules are based on the Holmes-Hallowell rates established by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a recent case. They maintain the present rates are so low as to be confiscatory. The suspension by the commission will give lignite operators of the state an opportunity to come forward and present objections to the increase. It is expected that a vigorous fight against increased rates, especially at a time when the lignite industry is fighting competition in extending its market area. In numerous quarters in the last year complaints have been made that lignite rates are too high.

27 MINERS' BODIES TAKEN OUT OF MINE

Exact Cause of Explosion Which Entombed Them May Not Be Learned

Glen Rogers, W. Va., Nov. 7.—The bodies of 27 miners killed yesterday in a gas explosion at the mine of the Raleigh & Wyoming Coal Mining company today lay side by side in various undertaking establishments in Mullins, this county, where they were taken in a special train after having been recovered in an entry 800 feet below the surface which had proved their tomb. The last body was brought to the surface last night as a party of state officials including Governor Morgan arrived from Charleston. Meantime an investigation was being conducted by the chief of the state mining department but it was considered improbable that the cause of the accumulation of gas in the entry or how it became ignited would be learned. All the men were working in the single entry when the explosion occurred and only the fact that the mine was equipped with three ventilating system enabled many to escape.

SCOTTISH-RITE REUNION. Grand Forks, Nov. 7.—Programs for the twenty-seventh reunion of the Scottish Rite bodies of the Valley of Grand Forks, Jurisdiction of North Dakota, have been prepared. The Reunion will be held at the Masonic Temple in Grand Forks on Nov. 19-22. At that time degrees from the 4th to the 32nd will be conferred on a class of candidates.

FALL FESTIVAL SUCCESSFUL. Valley City, Nov. 7.—Nearly 5,000 people visited Valley City Saturday, to attend the first annual Fall Festival. Over $400 in cash prizes were awarded for corn and dairy exhibits which packed the new Mark Smith building. A pure bred Holstein heifer worth $500, was won away to William Martin, of W. N. D., who held the lucky ticket.

Ought to Be Warned

The North Dakota writing the Governor said that "our people ought to be warned not to leave North Dakota until they are sure that they are going to find work or better living conditions where they are going" and he declared that if the people had known the truth about conditions either on the coast or in the Dominion of Canada few would have left Minnesota, South or North Dakota, or Montana. He declared that a careful investigation would satisfy 90 percent of those who are thinking of moving that they would be infinitely better off to continue their life and labor in North Dakota, than to sacrifice their homes, their friends and much of what property they have left, in making a move into another section where conditions are not any better than the conditions from which they are moving.

Governor Nestos endorsed the statements of the North Dakota.

"Talks with many others who have come from Canada and from the coast have already convinced me that the statements of this North Dakota citizen are absolutely correct and that 90 percent of those who leave the state of North Dakota to go into these other states or the Dominion of Canada will wish inside of a year that they had never left the state of North Dakota and will be anxious to borrow enough money to get back to their old home," said the Governor.

Should Investigate First

"I hope, therefore, that every person who now thinks of leaving the state will, first of all, make a careful investigation of conditions in the place to which they intend to move and to find out, beforehand whether men or families with the money they possess will really improve their conditions by leaving their old homes in the state of North Dakota. I am confident that if our people would do this, that practically all of those who have been thinking of leaving the state will change their attitude and will continue to stay in North Dakota and struggle with the present conditions until the improvement which is sure to come soon makes things right for the farmers and others in North Dakota. Of course those who have plenty of money can settle anywhere and get along, but even these will find it difficult to secure the right kind of a home in the crowded centers of California or a place where it does not cost them more to live than they can well afford to spend."

"North Dakota is going to come out all right and will do so surprisingly fast. Those who get panicky now and either move from the state or take their money out of banks that are good and solvent, as the great majority of our banks are, are defeating their own purposes and helping to make times hard for themselves and others. Merited confidence in the state and a disposition to put your money into, or leave the money already deposited in the banks whose statements show them to be good and dependable, will do much toward improving conditions in the state. Will restore confidence, and will make it possible for use to make a genuine improvement and return to a reasonable degree of prosperity in another year."

MERCER LAND SALE IS MADE

Sale of 160 acres of land in northern Mercer county, at $30, was made by C. E. Kellogg, for one of the closed banks for which he is receiver. The farm, north of Krem, has minor improvements on it. It was purchased by Jacob Unterschr, Jr., who was financed in making a $2,000 cash down payment by his father, a pioneer of the Slope country, who has prospered in farming. The elder Mr. Unterschr, in aiding his son to buy the farm, reiterated his satisfaction with North Dakota and his faith in the future of the state.

22 KILLED IN POLAND DURING STRIKE RIOTS

Government Claims Socialists Did Not Make Good on Promise For Peace

INFANTRY DISARMED

Many Killed as Cavalry Follows With a Charge to Disburse Big Crowds

(By the Associated Press.)

Warsaw, Poland, Nov. 7.—Twenty-two persons have been killed and scores wounded in riots and bombing growing out of the strike of railway workers. The orders occurred despite the agreement of the socialists to call off the strike in return for the government's promise to withdraw the military from the railroads. The most serious riots were at Gracchow, where crowds surrounded and disarmed a company of infantry. The men were rescued in a cavalry charge in which 20 persons were killed. Most of the dead are soldiers, including three officers. Gracchow has been the scene of communist propaganda, of most active sort, directed by outside leaders according to the government.

A bomb exploded in Warsaw yesterday in the headquarters of the socialists, killing two persons. The city is alarmed by the disturbance but no further trouble occurred. Police are patrolling the city. The apparent settlement of the strike is attributed to the failure of the socialists and communists to succeed in inciting sufficient disorders and economic disturbances to make a tie-up of the roads effective.

The New Jersey legislature remained in the Republican column notwithstanding the vigorous campaign waged by the Democrats. Mayor Ralph, Republican of San Francisco, apparently was re-elected.

The result of the senatorial and congressional elections will leave the two houses of Congress with this line-up: House, Republicans, 225; Democrats 205; socialist, one; independent, one; farmer-labor, one; veterans, 25; Republican majority 18. The Republican majority in the senate will remain at six.

Married Seven, Goes to Prison

Spokane, Wash., Nov. 7.—Harry L. Roshon, who has confessed that he married seven women in Pacific coast and middle-western cities without the formality of divorcing any one of them, was sentenced today for the state penitentiary at Walla Walla where he will serve a three-year sentence for grand larceny. He pleaded guilty in court here to embezzlement of $7,000 from Mrs. Alma Schneider of Spokane, one of the women, with which he went through the marriage ceremony.

Loss By Fire In Two Cities of N. D.

Minot, Nov. 7.—Fires at Lansford and Maxbass last week destroyed the Lansford Journal building and the Sawyer undertaking parlors at the former town and the Imperial elevator at Maxbass. The loss in the Lansford fire is estimated at between $5,000 and $6,000 and the Imperial Elevator company's loss cannot be definitely ascertained until partial salvaging of the 12,000 bushels of grain that were in it has been completed.

ENGLAND LACKS DENTISTS.

London, Nov. 7.—There are 3,000,000 children in England and Wales who need dental treatment, and it has been said recently by an insurance concern that had teeth are the direct cause of most of the general debility and minor illnesses which exist today. England has only 117 dentists to every million population which is far from enough.

ELECTIONS TO LEAVE PARTIES STATUS SAME

Republicans to Have Majority of 18 in National House, 6 in the Senate

ONE GAINED BY G. O. P.

Many Local Issues Are Voted on Throughout Country in by Elections

(By the Associated Press.)

Democrats were elected yesterday in all three states where there were gubernatorial elections—Kentucky, Maryland and Mississippi.

Vermont, where the only senatorial contest was held, returned a Republican, Porter H. Dale, who defeated Park Pollard, cousin of President Coolidge.

In the seven contests for the house the Democrats won four and the Republicans three, one of the Republican victories being an upset in which former Representative Fairchild defeated his Democratic opponent for the place made vacant by the death of J. Vincent Ganley in the 24th New York district. Party alignment was unchanged in the other congressional elections.

The victory of the Democrats in Kentucky, where Rep. William J. Fields superseded Charles I. Dawson represented a swing of the pendulum with which the last election swept Governor Edwin T. Morrow into office. Mr. Fields' majority was decisive and he will have a Democratic legislature to support him.

Governor Ritchie, re-elected in Maryland over Alexander Armstrong, Republican, had an increased majority over his first election. H. L. Whitfield, Democrat, had no opposition in Mississippi.

In New York state the Republicans retained control of the general assembly but the Democratic judicial committee in Manhattan and the Bronx was swept into office overwhelming the Republicans and an independent ticket supported by William Randolph Hearst. The soldier bonus apparently was carried and the hydro-electric project beaten.

Local issues were voted on in various sections of the country. Virginia turned down a fifty million dollar bond issue for good roads. Ohio elected mayors supported by the Ku Klux Klan in Youngstown, Portsmouth, Akron and several smaller cities. Philadelphia returned Freeland Kendrick, Republican, as mayor by an overwhelming majority.

In Illinois Miss Mary M. Bartel, the first woman to be elected to a circuit court judgeship was elected in Cook county. She is a Republican and led the ticket. The Republicans elected 11 and the Democrats nine judges of the superior court.

The New Jersey legislature remained in the Republican column notwithstanding the vigorous campaign waged by the Democrats. Mayor Ralph, Republican of San Francisco, apparently was re-elected.

The result of the senatorial and congressional elections will leave the two houses of Congress with this line-up: House, Republicans, 225; Democrats 205; socialist, one; independent, one; farmer-labor, one; veterans, 25; Republican majority 18. CARRYING WOUNDED AWAY

This photo, taken recently in Berlin, shows a group of workers carrying a wounded woman to safety. While this was going on, fierce rioting was taking place by unemployed in many sections of the city and country.

CHILD IN TERROR AS RESCUE MADE

A cry of terror rent the air near the corner of Main and Fourth streets yesterday afternoon. The clothed form of an infant lay on the street car track with the car bearing down on it.

A child rushed to one side screaming. A man dashed out from the sidewalk to make the rescue. Motorman Michael O'Connor slapped on the brakes on the street car. The clothed form of an infant—a big doll—was handed back to the little girl who had dropped it by the unknown rescuer. And the little girl's tears vanished and she thanked the unknown and Motorman O'Connor.

SEN. LADD TO SPEAK IN CITY NEXT SUNDAY

Will Deliver Address at Auditorium on Impressions of Russia

United States Senator E. F. Ladd will speak at the Auditorium in Bismarck Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. on impressions of Russia as gained from his recent trip.

This was announced this afternoon when a number of local people definitely completed arrangements for the meeting. Senator Ladd is coming to Bismarck and Mandan on his trip to many cities in the state seeking support in a fight against reduction of the tariff on flax. The Commercial Club in Fargo, after a dinner at which Senator Ladd was a guest, adopted resolutions opposing the reduction.

Senator Ladd recently returned from a long trip in Russia with Senator King of Utah and others. United States Senator E. F. Ladd, who is in North Dakota on a tour, he announced, to gain support in reducing the tariff on flax.

At a banquet by the Mandan Commercial Club at Mandan Saturday night. Fifty business men have been invited to the banquet. Senator Ladd is expected to speak at the banquet. Whether he will speak solely upon domestic questions or give observations from his recent trip to Russia has not been announced.

346 Pay Penalty Before Firing Squad in War

London, Nov. 7.—Out of the many millions of men which comprised the British army during the late war only 346 officers and men so failed in their duty as to justify their execution by the firing squad. Three British officers were shot—two for desertion and one for murder. One man was sentenced to death three times, each for desertion. Twice he was reprieved but he could not stand the weight of blood and mud of the trenches so he deserted again and the third time he was shot.

Forty other men, after being sentenced to death were reprieved only to offend again and be shot. In 266 cases the offence against the military code was desertion, though 37 men were executed for cowardice, three for mutiny and two for sleeping on duty. In all, 3,080 death sentences were passed.

HOGS SHIPPED.

Steele, Nov. 7.—Tuesday a car of hogs was shipped out of Steele for the Twin City market. Thirty-eight hogs filled the car, and the weight of the cargo was 17,895 pounds, an average of 470 pounds each.

ASKS DEFINITE STATEMENT OF HER POSITION

Wants to Know Just What Is Meant by Germany's Present Capacity to Pay

FULLER REPLY SOUGHT

Ambassador Jusserand, After Seeing Coolidge, Telegraphs to Government

Washington, Nov. 7.—The Washington government, still hopeful that American helpfulness in the efforts to solve the reparations tangle may be found available by the allied powers today sought a more definite understanding of the restrictions the French government proposes to place on the proposed expert inquiry into the question. For this purpose the French foreign office had dispatched to Ambassador Jusserand at Washington an amplified statement of the French position.

A fuller explanation of the position of his government was sought by the French ambassador after his conferences here, it was learned authoritatively, had failed to convey to Washington officials precisely what is meant in its proposal to confine the inquiry into Germany's present capacity to make reparations. On this point as the situation now presents itself appears to hinge the question of American participation on the American move to solve the reparations tangle. Although the French ambassador's conversation with President Coolidge yesterday following his meeting with Sec. Hughes the day before failed to clarify in their minds the exact nature of the French restrictions, administration officials, denying all reports of a deadlock, said they regarded the door as still open to American cooperation in the new plan.

WHEAT RESISTS BUNT AND SMUT

Washington, Nov. 7.—Development of a new variety of winter wheat which is resistant to bunt or smut is announced by the Department of Agriculture. It has been named "Ridit" because it is expected to rid the wheat fields of smut. The variety was developed by Dr. E. F. Gaines of the Washington agricultural experiment station at Pullman, Wash., in co-operation with the Department of Agriculture. It was bred through crossing Turkey and Florence varieties, the latter a smut resistant spring wheat from Australia. Ridit has been found better adapted for semiarid regions. A few hundred farmers in eastern Washington planted Ridit this fall to give it a more complete trial than it has had in experiments.

Large Enrollment At V. C. Normal

Valley City, Nov. 7.—The Valley City State Teachers college has the largest enrollment of students doing work of college grade it has ever had in any fall quarters of its history. The enrollment in the summer quarters of the past two years has been in excess of this number but the present registration of college students is highly satisfactory for one of the regular quarters.

The numbers enrolled, not counting special students, correspondence students, or the training school, is 624, and of this number 566 are doing work of college grade beyond graduation from a standard four year high school course.

40 TO 60 PCT. BOOST ASKED BY RAILROADS

Petition Presented to State Railroad Commission, Also to Interstate Body

TO SUSPEND RATES

Commission to Postpone Schedules Taking Effect 120 Days to Give Operators Chance

Railroads operating in North Dakota this afternoon presented to the state railroad commission new schedules of lignite rates, effective December 6, increasing the freight charges on one line hauls 40 to 60 per cent, according to Chairman Frank Mithollan of the commission.

Similar petition was presented to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, on inter-state shipments. The commission immediately will suspend the rates for state hauls only for a period of 120 days and will ask similar suspension by the Interstate Commerce Commission on inter-state rates, the chairman said.

The railroads, in their petition, said that their proposed schedules are based on the Holmes-Hallowell rates established by the Interstate Commerce Commission in a recent case. They maintain the present rates are so low as to be confiscatory.

The suspension by the commission will give lignite operators of the state an opportunity to come forward and present objections to the increase. It is expected that a vigorous fight against increased rates, especially at a time when the lignite industry is fighting competition in extending its market area. In numerous quarters in the last year complaints have been made that lignite rates are too high.

27 MINERS' BODIES TAKEN OUT OF MINE

Exact Cause of Explosion Which Entombed Them May Not Be Learned

Glen Rogers, W. Va., Nov. 7.—The bodies of 27 miners killed yesterday in a gas explosion at the mine of the Raleigh & Wyoming Coal Mining company today lay side by side in various undertakings establishments in Mullins, this county, where they were taken in a special train after having been recovered in an entry 800 feet below the surface which had proved their tomb. The last body was brought to the surface last night as a party of state officials including Governor Morgan arrived from Charleston.

Meantime an investigation was being conducted by the chief of the state mining department but it was considered improbable that the cause of the accumulation of gas in the entry or how it became ignited would be learned. All the men were working in the single entry when the explosion occurred and only the fact that the mine was equipped with three ventilating system enabled many to escape.

SCOTTISH-RITE REUNION.

Grand Forks, Nov. 7.—Programs for the twenty-seventh reunion of the Scottish Rite bodies of the Valley of Grand Forks, Jurisdiction of North Dakota have been prepared. The Reunion will be held at the Masonic Temple in Grand Forks on Nov. 19-22.

At that time, degrees from the 4th to the 32nd, inclusive will be conferred on a class of candidates.

Over $400 in cash prizes were awarded for corn and dairy exhibits which, packed the new Mark Smith building. A pure bred Holstein heifer worth $500, was won by Mrs. William Martin, of N. D., who held the lucky

ALBERTA GOES IN 'WET' CAMP IN ELECTION

Big Majority Is Seen For Placing Liquor Under Government Control

FOUR PROPOSITIONS

Calgary, Alberta, Nov. 6.—Alberta today was in that list of Canadian provinces that has thrown prohibition in the discard, having voted yesterday to permit sale of liquor under control and regulation of the government and to allow the sale and consumption of beer on licensed premises and in the home.

Although complete returns from yesterday's election had not been received early today enough polling places had been reported to show a decisive majority for proposition "D," one of the four that the voters had to choose from in expressing their opinion as to how and where intoxicants should be sold or drunk. The result indicated that the voters were well pleased with the system invoked in other provinces where the liquor is sold.

The various degrees of prohibition the electorate had to choose from included one that would have continued the present "bone dry" law, another that would have permitted sale of beer in licensed hotels and premises; a third to permit government sale of beer for consumption in private residences, and the fourth, which was chosen to permit government sale of all liquor.

Latest available returns showed 66,508 favoring government sale of prohibition, 42,385 favoring complete prohibition, 3,114 for licensed sale of beer and 2,248 for government sale of beer. Only about one-half of the voting places had been heard from.

WOMAN HURT, AUTO SPEEDER KEEPS GOING

Mrs. H. A. Ziller of McKenzie Badly Injured in Accident East of the City

Mrs. H. A. Ziller of McKenzie sustained a badly crushed hand and lost a finger in addition to receiving bruises and cuts early last night near the penitentiary when a large automobile crashed into their car as Rev. and Mrs. Ziller and family were returning to their home after visiting in Bismarck.

Rev. Ziller stated that they saw the large car approaching at a high rate of speed and had turned out to one side of the road as far as possible, but that the big car crashed into them, completely wrecking their car and throwing the occupants out, and then went on, failing to offer assistance and leaving them.

Mrs. Ziller was brought to the Bismarck hospital by another car which passed shortly after the accident.

BRANCH BANKS CASE BEFORE HIGH COURT

Attorney-General of Missouri, With Backing of Other States, Presses Case

Jefferson City, Nov. 6.—Attorney General Jesse Barrett left today for Washington, where on Monday, Nov. 12, he will argue before the supreme court of the United States the national branch case which originated in Missouri and has assumed nationwide importance. Eighteen other states through their attorneys-general have joined with Missouri in the case while on the other side of the question some of the largest national banks of the country have joined to fight the state's case.

The case grew out of proceedings brought by Attorney General Barrett to prevent the First National bank of St. Louis from establishing a branch.

The attorney-general held that under Missouri's laws branch banking was unconstitutional and several weeks later the supreme court of Missouri upheld the opinion.

States joining with Missouri in the controversy include Wisconsin, Minnesota, North and South Dakota.

FAMILY AWAY, HOUSE ROBBED

Thieves Enter Home of City Commissioner Larson

City Commissioner John A. Larson, returning from a hunting trip, found that thieves had entered his residence on North Sixth street Saturday night while no one was in the house and had ransacked it thoroughly. A saxophone belonging to Mr. Larson's son, two suits of clothes, shoes and other numerous articles were taken. A little money was secured.

The thieves, who obtained entrance through a door, apparently took their time, going through the house from top to bottom.

BIG BOOZE HAUL MADE

British Auxiliary Schooner Is Captured

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 6.—The British auxiliary schooner Logue F., was captured on the coast of Florida yesterday by federal authorities and 3,900 cases of liquor, valued at $275,000 was seized, the officers reported on their return here tonight.

The capture was effected within the 12 mile limit off South Pablo Beach and the captain, H. A. Johnson of Harbor Island, British West Indies, and six members of the crew were arrested. They are being brought to Jacksonville, where they will be charged with violating the customs laws and the national prohibition law, officers said.

Worry Over Health Leads TO SUICIDE

John D. Thomas, Widely Known Railroad Conductor, Is Found Dead in Home

Worry induced by long illness is believed to have prompted John Thomas, 72 years old, one of the most widely known railroad men in this section of the state, to have taken his own life at his home, 306 Avenue B, about 7 o'clock last night. He was found on the floor in the living room, his head pierced by a bullet from a .22 calibre rifle.

Mr. Thomas was born in Cleveland, Ohio. He lived with his parents in Covington, Ky. and Cleveland, and came to the Northwest at an early age. He entered the employ of the Soo railroad, and was a conductor both on the main line and on the Soo line out of Bismarck.

Mr. Thomas retired from the Soo on July 28, 1922. He became a conductor on August 1, 1922, and was awarded a pension in his 35 years of faithful service as a conductor. At the time of his retirement he was the oldest conductor on the Soo lines in point of service. During his service on the Soo he made hundreds of acquaintances and was known for his efficient and kindly service.

The deceased was a member of the Masonic blue lodge, and was a Knight Templar. He belonged to the Order of Railway Conductors. Mr. Thomas is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. J. G. Cowan. Funeral services will be held on Thursday, probably in the afternoon. Arrangements had not been definitely completed this afternoon.

KLAN LEADER HELD GUILTY

Four Convictions Made in Bastrop, La., Case

Bastrop, La., Nov. 6.—Four alleged members of the Morehouse Parish Ku Klux Klan, including Captain J. K. Skipwith, exalted cyclops, were found guilty of "carrying firearms on the premises of another" in connection with hooded activities in Morehouse Parish last year.

Sentences will be pronounced later.

Others found guilty were Benton Pratt, Harvin Pickett and W. G. Intosh.

Three alleged klansmen, tried jointly with the four, were found not guilty. They were Sam Eldridge, Sam Cox and "Gus" Pickett.

The seven were tried jointly before Fred C. Odum in sixth district court. They were charged with a raid on the home of Alonzo Braddock, farmer, who was believed to be engaged in the illegal manufacture of whiskey.

The cases were the first of a series of crimes which have been set up for trial this week.

Captain Skipwith testified he organized the party to make the Braddock raid, but that he had verbal authority from Sheriff Fred Carpenter.

Testimony at the trial brought out that the Braddock home was broken into by a large band of men after midnight and that none of them had a warrant against Braddock.

HIRES TWO D. B. C. MEN ON SAME DAY

W. P. Plath and Geo. Donnelly graduated from Dakota Business College, Fargo, N. D., on the same day. Before evening, both were "placed" with the Union Light, Heat and Power Co., making ten D. B. C. students with this institution. The Standard Oil Co. has employed 133 "Dakotans." Nearly 700 banks have D. B. C. help.

Better have thorough training and get a good position promptly, than take a hurry-up course and "wait until something turns up."

SEEK ACTION ON DECORATING PLAN FOR CITY

Committee Wants to Close Permanent Decorations Matter Up as Quickly as Possible

An effort to wind up very quickly the campaign instituted by a local committee to provide the city with a set of permanent decorations for convention and celebration use is to be made in the next few days by G. A. Hassell and Robert Webb, in charge of the solicitation. The matter must be closed up if the permanent decorations are to be available for the state teachers' convention, here November 21.

Mr. Hassell explained that $1,500 is the goal. Not all of this is needed for the purchase of the decorations, but under the carefully worked out plan a fund will be provided for replacements and for the cost of putting up the decorations and taking them down.

The big advantage in the plan, as the committee sees it, is that it will save the business men money in the long run and will enable more frequent decoration of the city in the past few years much more has been spent for decorations than is now proposed, it is stated.

Mr. Hassell believes that so only should those visited gladly and the plan but others make voluntary contributions. Members of the committee, being badly engaged each day, ask those whom they probably will call on to familiarize themselves with the plan and consider it, so that they can make the solicitation quickly.

It is proposed that the decorations shall be placed in charge of the Association of Commerce, and that they will be carefully preserved.

MOTHER HAS VARIED DUTIES IN BUSINESS

Runs Hotel, Restaurant, Millinery Store, Farm, and Others in Addition to Home

WAS TRAINED NURSE

By NEA Service.

Putnam, Tex., Nov. 7.—When Mrs. Mary Guyton isn't assigning guests to rooms in her hotel here, she's in her restaurant supervising the menu or serving customers.

When she isn't in her millinery store showing a woman the latest creation, she's probably at her dairy with her 12 Holstein cows.

When she isn't selling some of her pigs and poultry, she's at home mothering her eight-year-old daughter, Mary.

Or she might be out managing an oil field of 200 wells, drawing maps, leasing acreage or fixing drilling contracts.

And when she isn't occupied in any of these capacities, she may be found furnishing advice to her Putnam neighbors.

Outside of that, Mrs. Guyton has all the time in the world to herself!

Yet, in an emergency, she will go out and nurse a sick man or woman to health. For she is the only trained nurse in Callahan county. She stopped actual practice at the death of her husband, a surgeon.

Counselor, Too.

Mrs. Guyton comes from Trenton, N. J., and has been here only five years. In that time she has won the confidence of the farmers and oil men in this region to such an extent that they come to her with their troubles and problems, tell her their secrets and follow her advice like an expert.

Her greatest interest lies in the oil district which she manages for the men who own the wells. She owns three wells herself and takes as much interest in those of the others as she does in her own. She is what the men call their "good angel."

And her hotel is no small, ramshackle affair, either. It is of Spanish mission style, with a large lobby, spacious dining-room and contains 60 rooms. That's an imposing hostelry for a town the size of Putnam.

Hard, persistent work, patience, a square deal for everybody. This is how she explains she manages her varied affairs. "I try to help people, and I enjoy it. And I find they remember and help me."

Simple Housewife.

But Mrs. Guyton is no masculine type of woman. She is gentility personified. She has her womanly frailties and habits, and she dresses just as any housewife would—usually in a simple gingham dress.

"Women ought not to be tied down to the home any more than men," she believes. "The business world is open to women as it never was before, and they ought to take advantage of it."

"I think it a mistake to devote so much time to club work. How much greater benefit would women get by putting all this time and energy into business."

In fact, she thinks women ought to be at least as good as men in business.

"Women are better adapted to details," she explains. "A man wants to hurry through and miss up details that may have much importance, and a woman will take her time and consider what the man thinks are trifles."

Mother Practices Law With Son

By NEA Service.

Cincinnati, Nov. 7.—Mother and son are practicing law together here. And they are only waiting now for daughter and sister to join the firm.

It's all come about through Mrs. Jessie Adler's ambition and determination to go through college and legal school with her son, Sherman.

Funny part is, she beat him through the bar examination by a year. Now, she's an assistant county prosecutor. She is the first woman ever to be appointed to this office in Hamilton county.

She's a success.

Mrs. Adler, though an ardent suffragette or years, is distinctly feminine. Yet she doesn't require courtesies that aren't extended to men, while she's about her professional duties.

"When I go into the offices where men are smoking and have their hats on and their feet on their desks," she says, "I feel like an intruder."

"Why, then, should I ask them to treat men as an invited guest at a social function?"

But Home Woman.

"Just the same," she admits, "I like a man better if he extends me the same courtesy in my professional life that he would accord me on meeting me socially. I've been a woman 44 years longer than I've been an assistant prosecutor."

Mrs. Adler's daughter is 14. Just as soon as she's through prep school and college, she expects to pore over the old law books and get ready to join the partnership.

"My ambition," says the mother and senior partner, "is to prove that a woman with a perfectly splendid husband, a young daughter, a son as

VOLUNTEERS TO AID DISABLED VETS SATURDAY

Great Army to Carry Forward "Forget-Me-Not-Day" Throughout Country

A great volunteer army of "Forget-Me-Not-Day" workers will be in the field on Saturday, November 10, to distribute millions of little forget-me-nots to the public-spirited citizens of America; in the interests of the nation's wounded and disabled veterans of the great war.

Plans for this year's "Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign have been approved and heartily endorsed by President Calvin Coolidge, at Washington, D. C., and prominent government, state and civic officials throughout the United States. The proceeds of the day are to be used for the relief and welfare, as well as legislative and rehabilitation assistance, of the wounded and disabled American veterans of the great war, of whom there are more than 1,000,000 in all parts of the United States.

National Commander James A. McFarland of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, under whose auspices "Forget-Me-Not-Day" will be conducted in several hundred cities and towns in the United States on Saturday, November 10, has received the assurance of support from patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations everywhere in the country.

McFarland's plea for "priority for the disabled men in all things," has sounded a popular chord wherever the doughty little southerner, commander of the nation's maimed and wounded veterans of the great war, has spoken. The Central Trust Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, is national treasurer for the "National Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign.

Hundreds of workers are preparing for the observance of "Forget-Me-Not-Day" in this city; and the local disabled boys are confident that their drive will be a tremendous success. A citizens' committee is assisting the Disabled American Veterans in their plans for Saturday's campaign; and high school girls, young ladies, club women, Gold Star Mothers, War Mothers, Service Star Legion members, Auxiliary workers, public-spirited citizens and war workers, are all taking an active part in the arrangements for Saturday's big "Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign here.

EXPERT READS FUTURE FROM HANDWRITING

Has Revealed Things of Past and Future of Many by Glimpse of Penmanship

By Milton Bronner.

NEA Service Staff, Correspondent.

London, Nov. 7.—If you have any secrets from your wife, your mother-in-law, your business boss, or the police, give a wide berth to Rafael Schermann, who is on his way to America. And above all, don't let him get his eyes on any of your handwriting.

For Schermann is declared to be the modern miracle man. Just a couple of lines, idly scrawled by you, reveals to him your past and your future, your aptitudes, your habits, your illnesses, everything a person would want to know about you and, perhaps, more than you know about yourself.

Schermann, whose people are of Polish origin, used to work at a regular job in Vienna as fire damages appraiser. Suddenly he discovered his extraordinary powers as a graphologist and has been at it ever since, giving exhibitions of his gifts before scientific men in Vienna, Budapest, Prague and Zurich.

There is no possibility of his having a card index on all the people whose handwriting he examines. The stuff doesn't even have to be signed. All he needs is a few lines of your ordinary script.

By some unexplained gift he at once deduces from this a physical and psychical photograph of the writer, telling about his gait, voice and gestures, aptitudes and failings, state of health, likes and dislikes, traits of character and temperament. But that is not all.

The accumulation of personal, psycho-physical detail is merely the raw material of his vision. Out of this detail revealed to him by the dots and line of your handwriting, he is said to tell the course of your life.

Three samples:

FIRST—He analyzed the handwriting of a man who came to him. Schermann said the writer used to have his face smooth shaven; that the heavy black mustache was something designed to disguise him; that he was in trouble because of his cleverness at imitating other people's script. Not long after, the man was arrested by the police as a forger for whom a warrant had been standing.

SECOND—A young woman submitted her handwriting. He told her she had quarreled with her lover, had taken to drugs and was contemplating suicide. She confessed it was true.

THIRD—Another girl showed the script of her sweetheart. He told her the young man had incipient tuberculosis and advised her to wait until he was cured. The doctor's examination showed this was the truth.

In Vienna where he lives they say that of the analyses made by Schermann 70 per cent were correct, 22 per cent partly right and partly wrong and only 8 per cent totally in error. Schermann personally strongly objects to being classed with clairvoyants and mediums.

Some Viennese scientists think he has a sixth sense. He has been carefully watched by Professor Benedikt, the famous alienist of Vienna University. Benedikt admits seeing some wonderful things, but says he can't explain them.

Schermann's own theory is that the whole individuality of a man, with all the details of his life, is microscopically contained in his script and the trained eye perceives all in a sequence of pictures passing like those of a movie film.

And just as a movie film can be reversed, so Schermann can reverse his process. Just as from looking at your script, he can tell you about yourself, so from looking at you he can tell you what your handwriting is like. It is claimed his imitations of people's handwriting made by merely studying the person himself have in a majority of cases been very similar to the real handwriting.

"Winter Hints" For Farmers Made

Washington, Nov. 7.—Coming of winter has led the Department of Agriculture to announce a list of timely farmers' bulletins and circulars useful to the public. The list includes: "Frost and the Prevention of Damage from It," "Potato Storage and Storage Houses," "Pork on the Farm: Killing, Curing and Canning," "Diseases of Apples in Storage," "Operating a Home Heating Plant," "The Bedbug," "Care of Mature Fowls," "Lining and Loading Cars of Potatoes for protection from cold," "Sweet Potato Storage," "Measuring and Marketing Farm Timber," and "Harvesting and Storing Ice on the Farm."

No Wonder She Kicked. LAWYER—I have succeeded in making a settlement with your husband that is eminently fair to both of you.

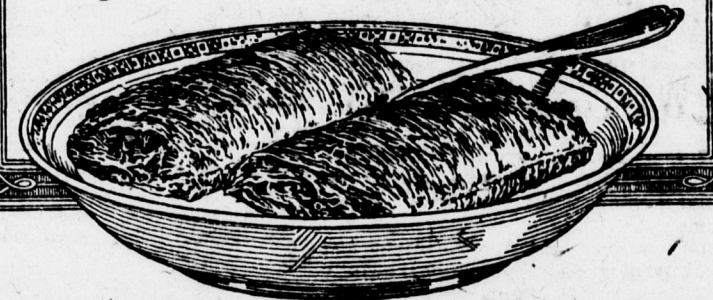

MRS. TRIPLEWED—Fair to both! I could have done that myself. What do you think I hired you for?—Boston Globe.

The Skipper Knew. WAITER—That man at the last table wants a drink for nothing.

CAPTAIN—Well, tell him we'll have him arrested for impersonating an officer.—Life.

126,000 Miles of Cloth for Cement Sacks

To keep cement moving from the mills to the many building jobs always under way, cement manufacturers require an astonishing quantity of sacks.

This year the industry has considerably more than 225,000,000 sacks. These represent enough cotton cloth to make a skirt for every woman and girl in the United States—126,000 miles of 30-inch fabric. Even a moderate sized mill which ships say 1,000,000 barrels a year must have 2,000,000 or so sacks.

When a customer returns a sack he gets credit for it, if it is usable or repairable. The convenient returnable sack means that each plant has to have large departments where men and women sew, sort, clean and count sacks continuously. This work alone costs the industry nearly $1,250,000 a year.

And cement manufacturers keep increasing their sack inventories so that they can ship promptly. Last year they purchased a total of more than 100,000,000 new cotton sacks. For replacements alone over 50,000,000 were needed; for increased supplies over 30,000,000. In addition over 18,000,000 paper bags were used representing 7,000,000 pounds of paper.

This problem of containers causes a large and steadily growing investment by the portland cement industry.

NEW LAW BARS RISK PAYMENT OUTSIDE N. D.

Rule Cites in Digest of Recent
Decisions of Workmen's
Compensation Bureau

That no compensation may be paid by the Workmen's Compensation Bureau to employees outside the state of North Dakota was called to the attention of employers in a case which has just been decided by the bureau. The case is described by Commissioner Wenzell as follows: Claimant was injured in August, 1923, subsequent to the going into effect of an amendment to the law providing that no compensation shall be paid on account of injuries occurring outside of the state of North Dakota unless the employer and the Bureau shall have previously contracted for insurance protection for employees while working outside of the state in the employment in which the injury occurred. Claimant's employer had made no such contract at the time of the injury. Claim dismissed for the reason that the Bureau was without authority to allow same under the amendment. (This was a minor injury, involving very little in dollars and cents, but should serve to call employers' attention to this change in the law.)

Another case, somewhat unusual, is digested by Mr. Wenzell as follows: "Claimant was an employee of bank (cashier). His small son brought his wagon, filled with ice, to bank and requested claimant to go home with him to fill the ice box, which he did. While trying to put a chunk of ice from wagon to ice box it fell on his foot, severely injuring the toes. Claim dismissed for reason that injury was not sustained in the course of employment."

A third case follows: "Claimant was bricklayer and plasterer. Upon completion of a construction job in North Dakota employer took crew to Minnesota point. Employer and claimant, with others, left Fargo in an auto which was overturned on the way, and balance of journey made by train. Claimant company complained but little of injury, continued work and received full pay until completion of Minnesota job. After expiration of more than 60 days a claim for compensation filed. Claim dismissed on ground that there was no injury and that no satisfactory explanation had been made of failure to file claim on time."

MARKET NEWS WHEAT TAKES BETTER TONE

Upturn in Liverpool Helps
Values on This Side of Water

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Unexpected strength in wheat quotations at Liverpool, together with a big bulge in the cotton market at New York, had a bullish influence on wheat here today during the early dealings. Upturns in the value of corn served also to revive bullish sentiment regarding wheat. Buying in the wheat pits, however, lacked volume and advances failed to hold well. The opening which ranged from one-fourth to five-eighths higher with December $1.06 1-4 to 1-2 and May $1.11 3-4 was followed by something of a reaction.

Increased selling which found support lacking brought about a material hold-back in wheat prices about the middle of the board of trade session. The market with the help of corn was rallying again near the finish. Wheat closed unsettled at 3-8 cents net lower to 1-4 cents advance, December, $1.05 3-8 to $1.05 3-4 and May $1.11 to $1.11 1-8.

FLAX PRICE TREND GOOD

One Large Buyer Is Buying
Heavily, Trowbridge Finds

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 7.—"Flax is being bought heavily by at least one large buyer which seems to indicate that the market trend is not downward" is the statement today of Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, director of the experiment station at the North Dakota Agricultural college.

Information from eastern points where there are flax by-products industries states that the buyers for these commodities are now buying heavily although they had first adopted the policy of waiting in hopes that the flax market would drop. Their recent buying activities indicate to Dr. Trowbridge that the buyers have given up hopes of lowered prices for flax and that is the reason they have started buying so heavily.

"It would seem safe to anticipate a good price and a heavy demand for seed next spring," said Mr. Trowbridge. "In spite of the fact that flax is being marketed now the price continues to hold up and the market does not show any signs of coming downward. The Argentine flax is coming on the market in January but this does not seem to deter the flax buyers from buying the American-raised variety."

Traffic Laws Strictly Enforced In Swiss City

Geneva, Nov. 7.—In no European town are the regulations on circulation, both for roads and sidewalks more strictly enforced than in Geneva. M. Hanotaux, France's representative for the League of Nations and Quinones de Leon, Spain's representative, had this fact brought to their attention the other day. They were so deep in a discussion that when crossing a street, they came to a halt, and continued their argument in the middle of the road, heedless of the desperate gesticulations by the nearest policeman.

"Here, you two, do you suppose that sidewalks were made for dogs only?" asked the officer as he came up to them.

Both men came back to reality with a shock.

"Do you know whom you are addressing?"

The officer laid a hand on each. "I should worry, the sidewalk for yours."

"But, Monsieur, I represent France on the Council of the League of Nations."

"And I, Spain, Monsieur."

A broad grin passed over the policeman's face as he replied:

"You can represent what you like, but I represent the law."

The two delegates stepped on to the sidewalk without further discussion.

Ten million marks in Germany today? Yet it isn't worth one lone copper of Uncle Sam's currency. In Germany, however, it buys a loaf of bread, five cigarettes or a box of matches. With the fall of the mark, the government is even cutting down the size of the paper mark, the government is even cutting down the size of the paper it's printed on.

FORBES ASKED BY HARDING TO STEP OUT

Sale of Surplus Supplies
Brought Summary Action
From the Late President

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Harding called for the resignation of Charles E. Forbes as director of the Veterans Bureau as a result of the Perryville, Maryland, surplus supplies sale transaction. Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, personal friend and physician to the late executive, testified today before the senate investigation committee.

General Sawyer testified that in the face of an order by the President that the shipments of supplies from Perryville be stopped carloads of materials were sent out for two or three days.

"As a result of this insubordination Col. Forbes was asked to resign," Gen. Sawyer said.

START FIGHT ON LIQUOR IN ENGLAND

Professor Writes Book on Action of Alcohol on Man

London, Nov. 7.—Almost everyone in England feels that some day in the future this country will be the scene of a big fight over the prohibition question. Both sides are already busy bellowing from soap boxes and lecture platforms, and spreading printed propaganda here and there.

To the side of the wets has just come Professor Ernest H. Starling, University College, London, with a book on "The Action of Alcohol on Man."

"The work of the community," he contends, "is carried out almost entirely by men with whom the moderate use of alcohol is habitual."

"We have only to look at the leaders in every walk of life. In each group we find a small handful who are total abstainers, but the vast majority would probably give over 90 percent who habitually partake of small doses of alcohol. Health is in most people a necessary condition of success, and most of the members of the leading groups of society enumerated are distinguished not only by their good general health, but also by the fact that they live to a ripe old age."

Dry dinners are a fatal bore to everyone, the Professor seems to think, and the merriment is obviously forced. But an ordinary feast at which alcoholic drinks form a part is ever "distinguished by a natural flow of spirits and good fellowship."

"A man may go to such a dinner full of the cares and work of the day, with little or no interest in those he has to meet, whose occupations may be very diverse from his own, nervous of making any remarks to his neighbors for fear of making himself ridiculous or saying something in which they are not interested. After the first glass of champagne he notices the conversation, instead of being spasmodic and forced, becomes general and free; the self-consciousness and precaution of each man with his own affairs becomes lessened."

ARREST TWO WITH LIQUOR

Charge Men With Transporting Intoxicating Moonshine

Bruce Merrill, 33, and William Blevin, 36, were arrested by Sheriff Hedstrom and Chief of Police Martineson north of Bismarck yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock, on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor. The men were approaching Bismarck in a car at the time of their arrest. Upon search of the automobile two quarts of moonshine were found.

Merrill and Blevin are said to have come from the northern part of the state and located on a farm north of Menoken about two weeks ago. Sheriff Hedstrom and Deputy Sheriff Kafer found a still and sixty gallons of mash upon search of the farm where the two men had been living.

After examination before Judge Casselman last evening the men were bound over for a hearing in the district court.

Fatally Injured In Landslide

Halliday, N. D., Nov. 7.—Practically every bone in his body was broken when B. M. Guss, local farmer, while digging coal out of a side hill lignite mine loosened earth which precipitated a land slide of tons of coal and rock upon him, causing instant death. His wife, a few feet away, was unhurt, and unable to dig him out ran to the town for assistance. Deceased was 36 years old, a native of Pennsylvania, and is survived by his widow and five daughters.

Has Miraculous Escape From Death

Dickinson, Nov. 7.—When the farm wagon in which he was riding was struck and badly wrecked by North Coast Limited train No. 1 at the crossing by the Dickinson Wholesale Grocery, Frank J. Kosteletzky, residing south of the city, miraculously escaped instant death. The train, which was slowing down for the station, was stopped within a few car lengths.

Mr. Kosteletzky apparently unconscious of the approach of the train, drove over the crossing just as it was approaching the station. The engine crashed into the rear end of the wagon, demolishing it and throwing the driver several feet. He was picked up unconscious and rushed to St. Joseph's hospital, where it was found that outside of a few severe body bruises he was uninjured. He recovered sufficiently to be able to leave the hospital and return to his home within a few hours.

FARM FLOCKS INCREASING

Many Farmers Adopting
Limit of 40 on Sheep

Fargo, Nov. 7.—Farm flocks of forty are becoming more numerous in the state, according to D. J. Griswold, sheep specialist at the North Dakota Agricultural college.

"The interest in this fall in sheep has shown itself mainly in breeders' stock rather than in feeder sheep," said Mr. Griswold. Farmers "round" that feeder lambs were being he'd at a premium and they would not risk buying these lambs and running them on such a narrow margin. The only gain this fall for the lamb feeder has been what poundage may be added to the lambs between the time they are purchased this fall and when they are sold again on the butcher market.

Breeding sheep, on the other hand, have greatly interested the North Dakota farmer. John Haw, county agent leader of this state reports that many county agents report a sudden revival of interest in breeding sheep. Farmers realize that if feeder lambs were at such a good premium there must be good money in raising them.

Now the North Dakota farmers are buying their own breeding ewes and one or two good rams and will have lambs to sell at a premium next fall.

Alaska To Enter Paper Industry

Washington, Nov. 7.—Development of an important pulp and paper industry in southeastern Alaska is inevitable because of the water power, timber and transportation conditions there, in the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

"The rate of development of the pulp and paper industry of the territory," says Mr. Wallace, "will be controlled by the economic factor of distance from present consumption centers, and by the necessity, inherent in the industry itself, for large capital investments, rather than by physical disadvantages. The physical conditions in southeastern Alaska, presence of cheaply developed power, an enormous supply of inexpensive wood, and the availability of water transportation—are the very factors which make inevitable the expansion of pulp and paper manufacturing in the Territory."

NEW LAW BARS RISK PAYMENT OUTSIDE N. D.

Rule Cites in Digest of Recent
Decisions of Workmen's
Compensation Bureau

That no compensation may be paid by the Workmen's Compensation Bureau to employees outside the state of North Dakota was called to the attention of employers in a case which has just been decided by the bureau. The case is described by Commissioner Wenzell as follows:

Claimant was injured in August, 1922, subsequent to the going into effect of an amendment to the law providing that no compensation shall be paid on account of injuries occurring outside of the state of North Dakota unless the employer and the Bureau shall have previously contracted for insurance protection for employees while working outside of the state in the employment in which the injury occurred. Claimant's employer had made no such contract at the time of the injury. Claim dismissed for the reason that the Bureau was without authority to allow same under the amendment. (This was a minor injury, involving very little in dollars and cents, but should serve to call employers' attention to this change in the law.)

Another case, somewhat unusual, is described by Mr. Wenzell as follows: "Claimant was an employee of bank (cashier). His small son brought his wagon, filled with ice, to bank and requested claimant to go home with him to fill the ice box, which he did. While trying to put a chunk of ice from wagon to ice box it fell on his foot, severely injuring the toes. Claim dismissed for reason that injury was not sustained in the course of employment."

A third case follows: "Claimant was bricklayer and plasterer. Upon completion of a construction job in North Dakota employer took crew to Minnesota point. Employer and claimant, with others, left Fargo in an auto which was overturned on the way, and balance of journey made by train. Claimant company complained but little of injury, continued work and received full pay until completion of Minnesota job. After expiration of more than 60 days a claim for compensation filed. Claim dismissed on ground that there was no injury and that no satisfactory explanation had been made of failure to file claim on time."

MARKET NEWS

WHEAT TAKES BETTER TONE

Upturn in Liverpool Helps
Values on This Side of
Water

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Unexpected strength in wheat quotations at Liverpool, together with a big bulge in the cotton market at New York, had a bullish influence on wheat here today during the early dealings. Upturns in the value of corn served also to revive bullish sentiment regarding wheat. Buying in the wheat pits, however, lacked volume and advances failed to hold well. The opening which ranged from one-fourth to five-eighths higher with December $1.05 1-4 to 1-2 and May $1.11 1-2 was followed by something of a reaction.

Increased selling which found support lacking brought about a material hold-back in wheat prices about the middle of the board of trade session. The market with the help of corn was rallying again near the finish. Wheat closed unsettled at 3-8 cents net lower to 1-4 cents advance, December, $1.05 5-8 to $1.05 3-4 and May $1.11 to $1.11 1-8.

FLAX PRICE TREND GOOD

One Large Buyer Is Buying
Heavily, Trowbridge Finds

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 7.—"Flax is being bought heavily by at least one large buyer which seems to indicate that the market trend is not downward" is the statement today of Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, director of the experimental station at the North Dakota Agricultural college.
Information from eastern points where there are flax-by-products industries states that the buyers for these concerns are now buying heavily although they had first adopted the policy of waiting in hopes that the flax market would drop. Their recent buying activities indicate to Dr. Trowbridge that the buyers have given up hopes of lowered prices for flax and that is the reason they have started buying so heavily.
"It would seem safe to anticipate a good price and a heavy demand for seed next spring," said Mr. Trowbridge. "In spite of the fact that flax is being marketed now the price continues to hold up and the market does not show any signs of wavering downward. The Argentine flax is coming on the market in January but this does not seem to deter the flax buyers from buying the American-raised variety."

Traffic Laws Strictly Enforced In Swiss City

Geneva, Nov. 7.—In no European town are the regulations on circulation, both for roads and sidewalks more strictly enforced than in Geneva. M. Hanotiaux, France's representative for the League of Nations and Quinones de Leon, Spain's representative, had this fact brought to their attention the other day. They were so deep in a discussion that when crossing a street, they came to a halt and continued their argument in the middle of the road, heedless of the desperate gesticulations by the nearest policeman.
"Here you two, do you suppose that sidewalks were made for dogs only?" asked the officer as he came up to them.
Both men came back to reality with a shock.
"Do you know whom you are addressing?"
The officer laid a hand on each. "I should worry, the sidewalk for you!"
"But, Monsieur, I represent France on the Council of the League of Nations."
"And I, Spain, Monsieur."
A broad grin passed over the policeman's face as he replied:
"You can represent what you like, but I represent the law."
The two delegates stepped on to the sidewalk without further discussion.

and the availability of water transportation—are the very factors which make inevitable the expansion of pulp and paper manufacturing in the Territory."

Alaska To Enter Paper Industry

Washington, Nov. 7.—Development of an important pulp and paper industry in southeastern Alaska is inevitable because of the water power, timber and transportation conditions there. In the opinion of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

"The rate of development of the pulp and paper industry of the territory," says Mr. Wallace, "will be controlled by the economic factor of distance from present consumption centers, and by the necessity, inherent in the industry itself, for large capital investments, rather than by physical disadvantages. The physical conditions in southeastern Alaska—presence of cheaply developed power, an enormous supply of inexpensive wood,

WAS TRAINED NURSE

By NEA Service.
Putnam, Tex., Nov. 7.—When Mrs. Mary Guyton isn't assigning guests to rooms in her hotel here, she's in her restaurant supervising the menu or serving customers.
When she isn't in her millinery store showing a woman the latest creation, she's probably at her dairy with her 12 Holstein cows.
When she isn't selling some of her pigs and poultry, she's at home mothering her eight-year-old daughter, Mary.
Or she might be out managing an oil field of 200 wells, drawing maps, leasing acreage or fixing drilling contracts.
And when she isn't occupied in any of these capacities, she may be found furnishing advice to her Putnam neighbors.
Outside of that, Mrs. Guyton has all the time in the world to herself.
Yet, in an emergency, she will go out and nurse a sick man or woman to health. For she is the only trained nurse in Callahan county. She stopped actual practice at the death of her husband, a surgeon.

Counselor, Too.
Mrs. Guyton comes from Trenton, N. J., and has been here only five years. In that time she has won the confidence of the farmers and oil men in this region to such an extent that they come to her with their troubles and problems, tell her their secrets and follow her advice like an expert's.

Her greatest interest lies in the oil district which she manages for the men who own the wells. She owns three wells herself and takes as much interest in those of the others as she does in her own. She is what the men call their "good angel."

And her hotel is no small, ramshackle affair, either. It is of Spanish mission style, with a large lobby, spacious dining-room and contains 60 rooms. That's an imposing hostelry for a town the size of Putnam.

Hard, persistent work, patience, a square deal for everybody. This is how she explains the manages her varied affairs. "I try to help people, and I enjoy it. And I find they remember and help me."

Simple Housewife.
But Mrs. Guyton is no masculine type of woman. She is gentility personified. She has her womanly frailties and habits, and she dresses just as any housewife would—usually in a simple gingham dress.

"Women ought not to be tied down to the home any more than men," she believes. "The business world is open to women as it never was before, and they ought to take advantage of it."

But think it is a mistake to devote so much time to club work. How much greater benefit would women get by putting all this time and energy into business."

In fact, she thinks, women ought to be at least as good as men in business.

"Women are better adapted to details," she explains. "A man wants to hurry through and pass up details that may have much importance, and a woman will take her time and consider what the man thinks are trifles."

Mother Practices Law With Son

By NEA Service.
Cincinnati, Nov. 7.—Mother and son are practicing law together here. And they are only waiting now for daughter and sister to join the firm.
It's all come about through Mrs. Jessie Adler's ambition and determination to go through college and legal school with her son, Sherman. Funny part is, she beat him through the bar examination by a year. Now, she's an assistant county prosecutor. She is the first woman ever to be appointed to this office in Hamilton county.

She's Suffragette.
Mrs. Adler, though an ardent suffragette for years, is distinctly feminine. Yet she doesn't require courtesies that aren't extended to men, while she's about her professional duties.

"When I go into the offices where men are smoking and have their hats on and their feet on their desks," she says, "I feel like an intruder."
"Why, then, should I ask them to treat men as an invited guest at a social function?"

But Home Woman.
"Just the same," she admits, "I like a man better if he extends me the same courtesy in my profession—something that he would accord me on a social basis. I've been a woman 44 years longer than I've been an assistant prosecutor."

Mrs. Adler's daughter is 14. Just as soon as she's through prep school and college, she expects to pore over the old law books and get ready to join the partnership.

"My ambition," says the mother and senior partner, "is to prove that a woman with a perfectly splendid husband, a young daughter, a son as

VOLUNTEERS TO AID DISABLED VETS SATURDAY

Great Army to Carry Forward "Forget-Me-Not-Day" Throughout Country

A great volunteer army of "Forget-Me-Not-Day" workers will be in the field on Saturday, November 10, to distribute millions of little forget-me-nots to the public-spirited citizens of America; in the interests of the nation's wounded and disabled veterans of the great war.

Plans for this year's "Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign have been approved and heartily endorsed by President Calvin Coolidge, at Washington, D. C., and prominent government, state and civic officials throughout the United States. The proceeds of the day are to be used for the relief and welfare, as well as legislative and rehabilitation assistance, of the wounded and disabled American veterans of the great war, of whom there are more than 1,000,000 in all parts of the United States.

National Commander James A. McFarland of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, under whose auspices "Forget-Me-Not-Day" will be conducted in several hundred cities and towns in the United States on Saturday, November 10, has received the assurance of support from patriotic, fraternal and civic organizations everywhere in the country. McFarland's plea for "priority for the disabled men in all things," has sounded a popular chord wherever the doughty little southerner, commander of the nation's maimed and wounded veterans of the great war, has spoken. The Central Trust Co., of Cincinnati, Ohio, is national treasurer for the "National Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign.
Hundreds of workers are preparing for the observance of "Forget-Me-Not-Day" in this city; and the local disabled boys are confident that their drive will be a tremendous success. A citizens' committee is assisting the Disabled American Veterans in their plans for Saturday's campaign; and high school girls, young ladies, club women, Gold Star Mothers, War Mothers, Service Star Legion members, Auxiliary workers, public-spirited citizens and war workers, are all taking an active part in the arrangements for Saturday's big "Forget-Me-Not-Day" campaign here.

Farmer Proves Dairying Pays

Tanpen, N. D., Nov. 7.—The story of Frank Horlacher, a farmer living near here, might well be entitled "From Nothing But Ill Health to Farming Success."
In the last three years Horlacher has earned an annual income of $3,500 from his 840-acre farm, which is typical in its modest equipment and layout of a well cultivated north-west farm.

Some years ago he moved to North Dakota from Chicago. On arriving at this farm he bought three ordinary scrub cows but followed this purchase shortly afterward with the addition of a purebred Holstein sire. Wheat farming looked like a losing proposition to him so he sowed this crop only three times. By 1916 he decided to develop his dairy enterprise at a time when his neighbors were showing their greatest enthusiasm over wheat. One neighbor wanted to get rid of his dairy herd and Horlacher bought his 11 head of grade dairy cattle.

With this start he has built up a herd which now consists of 56 head of cattle.
All of his profits have been made on his cows. He sells sweet cream and gets a premium for it because he keeps it cool and sanitary.

EXPERT READS FUTURE FROM HANDWRITING

Has Revealed Things of Past and Future of Many by Glimpse of Penmanship

By Milton Bronner.
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
London, Nov. 7.—If you have any secrets from your wife, your mother-in-law, your business boss, or the police, give a wide berth to Rafael Schermann, who is on his way to America. And above all, don't let him get his eyes on any of your handwriting.

For Schermann is declared to be the modern miracle man. Just a couple of lines, idly scribbled by you, reveals to him you past and your future, your aptitudes, your habits, your illnesses, everything a person would want to know about you and, perhaps, more than you know about yourself.

Schermann, whose people are of Polish origin, used to work at a regular job in Vienna as fire damage appraiser. Suddenly he discovered his extraordinary powers as a graphologist and has been at it ever since, giving exhibitions of his gifts before scientific men in Vienna, Budapest, Prague and Zurich.

There is no possibility of his having a card index on all the people whose handwriting he examines. The stuff doesn't even have to be signed. All he needs is a few lines of your ordinary script.

By some unexplained gift he at once deduces from this a physical and psychical photograph of the writer, telling about his gait, voice and gestures, aptitudes and failings, state of health, likes and dislikes, traits of character and temperament. But that is not all.

The accumulation of personal, psycho-physical detail is merely the raw material of his vision. Out of this detail revealed to him by the dots and line of your handwriting, he is said to tell the course of your life.

Three samples:
FIRST—He analyzed the handwriting of a man who came to him. Schermann said the writer used to have his face smooth shaven; that the heavy black mustache was something designed to disguise him; that he was in trouble because of his cleverness at imitating other people's script. Not long after, the man was arrested by the police as a forger for whom a warrant had been standing.

SECOND—A young woman submitted her handwriting. He told her she had quarreled with her lover, had taken to drugs and was contemplating suicide. She confessed it was true.

THIRD—Another girl showed the script of her sweetheart. He told her the young man had incipient tuberculosis and advised her to wait until he was cured. The doctor's examination showed this was the truth.

In Vienna where he lives they say that of the analyses made by Schermann 70 per cent were correct, 22 per cent partly right and partly wrong and only 8 per cent totally in error. Schermann personally strongly objects to being classed with clairvoyants and mediums.

Some Viennese scientists think he has a sixth sense. He has been carefully watched by Professor Benedikt, the famous alienist of Vienna University. Benedikt admits seeing some wonderful things, but says he can't explain them.

Schermann's own theory is that the whole individuality of a man, with all the details of his life, is microscopically contained in his script and the trained eye perceives all in a sequence of pictures passing like those of a movie film.

And just as a movie film can be reversed, so Schermann can reverse his process. Just as from looking at your script, he can tell you about yourself, so from looking at you he can tell you what your handwriting is like. It is claimed his imitations of people's handwriting made by merely studying the person himself have in a majority of cases been very similar to the real handwriting.

"Winter Hints" For Farmers Made

Washington, Nov. 7.—Coming of winter has led the Department of Agriculture to announce a list of timely farmers' bulletins and circulars useful to the public. The list includes: "Frost and the Prevention of Damage from It," "Potato Storage and Storage Houses," "Pork on the Farm: Killing, Curing and Canning," "Diseases of Apples in Storage," "Operating a Home Heating Plant," "The Bedbug," "Care of Mature

LAWYER—I have succeeded in making a settlement with your husband that is eminently fair to both of you.
MRS. TRIPLEWED—Fair to both? I could have done that myself. What do you think I hired you for?—Boston Globe.

126,000 Miles of Cloth for Cement Sacks

To keep cement moving from the mills to the many building jobs always under way, cement manufacturers require an astonishing quantity of sacks.

This year the industry has considerably more than 225,000,000 sacks. These represent enough cotton cloth to make a skirt for every woman and girl in the United States—126,000 miles of 30-inch fabric. Even a moderate sized mill which ships say 1,000,000 barrels a year must have 2,000,000 or so sacks.

When a customer returns a sack he gets credit for it, if it is usable or repairable. The convenient returnable sack means that each plant has to have large departments where men and women sew, sort, clean and count sacks continuously. This work alone costs the industry nearly $1,250,000 a year.

And cement manufacturers keep increasing their sack inventories so that they can ship promptly. Last year they purchased a total of more than 100,000,000 new cotton sacks. For replacements alone over 50,000,000 were needed; for increased supplies over 30,000,000. In addition over 18,000,000 paper bags were used representing 7,000,000 pounds of paper.

This problem of containers causes a large and steadily growing investment by the portland cement industry.

Traveling Clinic Completes Third Year of Work

The third year of activity for the Traveling Health Clinic of the North Dakota Tuberculosis association has just been concluded with a record for splendid achievement.

Much of what has been accomplished has been brought about through the sale of Christmas Seals. The traveling clinic has been an outgrowth of the work of the public health nursing in the rural communities.

Gifts, made possible by the sale of Christmas Seals.

The original purpose of the organization was to show the need for public health nursing in the rural districts and at the same time to go into the out-of-way places and to give help to those who are unable to procure it for themselves.

Out of this work developed the need for adding medical service to the organization, and to meet this need a car of the covered commercial type was purchased and equipped with everything necessary for a physician's office—instruments, dressings, etc. A registered physician and nurse were engaged and the clinic was manned and sent into the western part of the state to give efficient, ethical, medical and nursing service to those far removed from medical centers.

Those in charge of this work found that an expense of country fifty miles wide and a hundred miles long with a population of 19,000 did not have a resident physician or nurse.

In this region the clinic spent one entire season, passing from hamlet to hamlet and from house to house, giving the people such as they had without money or cost. While the traveling clinic was giving practical aid, it was also spreading the gospel of good health among the people and inculcating the principles of personal and community hygiene and sanitation.

During the first two years of the clinic's existence a distance of 9,945 miles were covered and 89 public clinics were held; 6,502 people were examined, and special treatment given to 291 who were ill, not to mention many visits and social service calls by the nurse. Thousands of pieces of good health literature were distributed during this pilgrimage.

Counties visited were McHenry, Mountrail, Divide, Burke, Benson, Bottineau, and Oliver.

All this wonderful relief for the isolated and poor people of outlying districts has been made possible by the sale of Christmas Seals.

Aprons and Apron-Dresses in Neat and Piquant Styles

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Judging from the new aprons and apron dresses, one might conclude that housework has come to be looked upon as a pastime—they are so cheerful, not to say sportive in color and design. While the tasks of home-making are rarely considered a form of indoor sport, much drudgery has passed into oblivion along with the ugly, utility uniforms that kept it company. With modern appliances for lessening labor, come aprons and utility dresses as slightly as any other frocks.

The apron-dress has a style of its own and demonstrates that utility does not stand in the way of good looks. It is the element of style that has greatly increased the popularity of these dependable garments, which are made, as they have been for years, of gingham, chambray, percale, linen, saten, unbleached domestic and cotton crepe. Cretonnes figure also in this season's displays. Rick-rack

Forty girls representing four church school classes were present. Next Monday mothers of the girls will attend the meeting.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL.
Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

AUTUMN MEALS

A nourishing soup that will be welcome at noon or night is:

Veal and Sage Soup.—Finely chop two and one-half pounds of lean veal. Cover with three quarts of water and bring slowly to the simmering point and simmer two hours, skimming occasionally. Drain and reheat. Soak one-fourth of a pound of pearl sage; one-half hour in cold water, stir into the hot stock and cook thirty minutes or until the sage is perfectly clear; now add two cupsful of scalded milk and pour slowly on four egg yolks slightly beaten. Season with salt.

Creamed Mushrooms on Toast.—Clean one pound of mushrooms, remove the caps and cut both stems and caps into thin slices. Melt five tablespoonsful of butter, add the sliced mushrooms and cook three minutes. Sprinkle with half a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne and dredge with one and one-half tablespoonsful of flour; pour over one-half cupful of this cream. Cook five minutes, stirring constantly. Serve on oblong pieces of toast and garnish with toast points and parsley.

Onion Purée.—Cook onions, drain and press through a puree sieve; there should be two cupfuls. Melt two and one-half tablespoonsful of butter, add two tablespoonsful of flour and stir until well blended; then pour on one-half cupful of milk. Bring to the boiling point, add the onion purée, a well-beaten egg, and season with salt and cayenne.

Pineapple Cream.—Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly, add the grated rind of one lemon and its juice, one-half cupful of sugar and a few grains of salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture thickens. Remove from the heat, add one and one-half tablespoonsful of granulated gelatin soaked in one-third of a cupful of cold water. Add two-thirds of a cupful of grated canned pineapple. When the mixture begins to thicken add one-half cupful of heavy cream beaten stiff and the whites of three eggs beaten stiff. Turn into a mold and chill.

Traveling Clinic Completes Third Year of Work

The third year of activity for the Traveling Clinic of the North Dakota Tuberculosis association has just been concluded with a record for splendid achievement.

Much of what has been accomplished has been brought about through the sale of Christmas Seals. The traveling clinic has been an outgrowth of the work of the public health nursing in the rural communities.

Files, made possible by the sale of Christmas Seals.

The original purpose of the organization was to show the need for public health nursing in the rural districts and at the same time to go into the out-of-way places and to give help to those who are unable to procure it for themselves.

Out of this work developed the need for adding medical service to the organization, and to meet this need a car of the covered commercial type was purchased and equipped with everything necessary for a physician's office—instruments, dressings, etc. A registered physician and nurse were engaged and the clinic was manned and sent into the western part of the state to give efficient, ethical medical and nursing service to those far removed from medical centers.

Those in charge of this work found that an expanse of country fifty miles wide and a hundred miles long with a population of 13,000 did not have a resident physician or nurse.

In this region the clinic spent one entire season, passing from hamlet to hamlet and from house to house, giving the people such as they had without money or cost. While the traveling clinic was giving practical aid, it was also spreading the gospel of good health among the people and inculcating the principles of personal and community hygiene and sanitation.

During the first two years of the clinic's existence a distance of 8,945 miles were covered and 89 public clinics were held; 6,502 people were examined, and special treatment given to 931 who were ill, not to mention many visits and social service calls by the nurse. Thousands of pieces of good health literature were distributed during this pilgrimage.

Counties visited were McHenry, Mountrail, Divide, Burke, Renville, Bottineau, and Oliver.

All this wonderful relief for the isolated and poor people of outlying districts has been made possible by the sale of Christmas Seals.

Nurses Entertain For Miss Roberts

Aprons and Apron-Dresses in Neat and Piquant Styles

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

Judging from the new aprons and apron dresses, one might conclude that housework has come to be looked upon as a pastime—they are so cheerful, not to say sportive in color and design. While the tasks of home-making are rarely considered a form of indoor sport, much drudgery has passed into oblivion along with the ugly, utility uniforms that kept it company. With modern appliances for lessening labor, come aprons and utility dresses as slightly as any other frocks.

The apron-dress has a style of its own and demonstrates that utility does not stand in the way of good looks. It is the element of style that has greatly increased the popularity of these dependable garments, which are made, as they have been for years, of gingham, chambray, percale, linen, saten, unbleached domestic and cotton crepe. Cretonnes figure also in this season's displays. Rick-rack braids, narrow edgings, simple needlework, that pearl buttons and combinations of materials are skillfully used to contribute embellishments. New models combine cotton crepe and black satin attractively, and needlework usually appears in bright colors on the saten. Some colors that used to be unstable are now fast, as blue-green, lavender and pink. Even varicolored prints, made up with aprons for lessening labor, come aprons and utility dresses as slightly as any other frocks.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL. Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong laxatives. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

LOSS TO COMMUNITY
In the death of Mrs. Agatha G. Patterson the city has lost a citizen who did much to forward the progress of Bismarck in the last score and more years. Her faith in the small city in which she and Mr. Patterson began building their business enterprise and her correct vision of its future are reflected in her many accomplishments. Mrs. Patterson was known as a charming hostess and while her charitable activities known to but few their range was wide. Many a poor family has been grateful for her kindly ministrations. She was perhaps more widely known throughout the state and beyond for her business ability. In this she was actuated not only in a pride in the business but in building a business that would bring credit to her city, and to this end, with her husband, had built a wide reputation for the McKenzie hotel. Although occupied with business problems which must be solved each day, Mrs. Patterson found time to serve the city as Postmistress and on the library board and to engage in many social and civic enterprises. The gallant fight she made against disease and the fortitude with which she met great pain were typical of the spirit which had animated her during her entire life.

TAX EXEMPT SECURITIES
There is every indication that reduction of the public expenditures and tax exempt securities will find a prominent place in the discussions of the forthcoming session of Congress. Senator Reed Smoot, who has been studying governmental expenses for many years, makes the flat statement that Congress can cut a half billion dollars off the tax burden the people are now carrying. Eugene Meyer after a trip over half the country declares that high taxes constitute a serious menace to farm prosperity, and that tax-exempt securities have led to extravagant, if not wasteful, expenditures.

It is proposed to amend the Constitution to provide that tax-exempt securities may be taxed. This would, of course, not affect the fifty-four billions of tax-exempt securities now in the hands of American investors. It would in the future prevent large incomes from escaping surtaxes imposed in the income tax law. For the tax-exempt security has proved to be an excellent method whereby the most wealthy citizens can be assured of a great income without contributing its proportionate share of the taxation. Obviously billions and billions of dollars are put into tax-exempt securities, and escape also the high surtaxes by this method. The burden of taxation must fall more heavily upon the remaining wealth of the country. It appears reasonable, too, as contended by Mr. Meyer, that the ease with which tax-exempt securities may be sold and disposed of that countless extravagant bond issues which postpone the burden of paying a debt for the future are a direct result.

Both the proposed amendment and Senator Smoot's suggestion tend to the same end—the reduction of taxation. But in the case of the latter, Congress has its power to reduce public expenditures by a direct method and quite without the necessity of the long and slow method of amending the Constitution.

SOUND PUBLIC SERVICE
The efforts of C. R. Green and those associated with him in lifting the Bank of North Dakota's balance sheet from a deficit to a modest profit ought to be rewarded in the commendation of the citizens of the state. Perhaps, a greater appreciation will be felt by those who have through actual contact with the bank learned that Mr. Green has sacrificed his own interests to labor long hours for the state. It is not argued, of course, that if the Bank of North Dakota were liquidated today it would return dividends to the state. The "frozen assets" that were on the bank's balance sheet when he came in cannot be lifted entirely by Mr. Green. There will be great loss there. But it is evident that careful and intelligent management of the institution has done much to minimize this condition.

SWEARING OFF
Man, did you ever stop smoking? Probably your experience was a lot like Roger Dolan's. Dolan had high blood pressure. It was the nervous kind, not due to hardening of the arteries.
"You're smoking too much," the doctor explained. "Nicotine is over-stimulating the adrenal glands. Makes them manufacture and cast into the blood stream too much adrenaline. This super-powerful drug over-stimulates the heart and constricts the 'pipes' through which the blood flows. With the 'pipes' smaller, your heart has to exert more force (blood pressure) to pump the blood through your system. You'll have to cut your smoking."

Dolan swore off. Nearly drove him wild. Seemed that everybody suddenly began offering him fine cigars. He couldn't smell tobacco smoke a block away. Chewed gum, package after package. Couldn't sleep nights. Fought the battle six days. Then surrendered.

Later the doctor, warm friend of Dolan, tried a psychological experiment. He said: "Roger, your lungs are in dangerous shape. I don't want to alarm you, but you'll have to be extremely careful. Smoking is the worst thing you can do. It irritates the lungs. Quit altogether? I don't care. That's up to you."

Dolan experienced a sudden chill. He had visions of himself dying from tuberculosis. He suddenly discovered that life was more attractive to him than tobacco. Quit? I did it instantly. Easily.

Now he learns, from the doctor, that he was hoaxed. Nothing wrong with his lungs except bronchitis.

"It's all right," says Dolan, "that I was unable to quit smoking that first time because I didn't really WANT to quit. I hypnotized myself into believing I COULDN'T quit. Properly scared, I hypnotized myself into believing I COULD quit—and HAD to. It's all a matter of mental attitude—imagination."

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not agree with the opinion of the Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

MR. FORD IS ALL READY

Weight of evidence is all to the effect that Henry Ford desires to throw his career with election to the Presidency. He is said to prefer the Republican nomination. If that is beyond his reach he would accept that of the Democratic party. In either case he would not be a party candidate.

It is a ringing in his ears. "The American Commonwealth." The question, "Up or down?" does a Presidential election turn? says the candidate for this great office is put forward "because he is a man of integrity, energy, firmness, individual power, and independence in affairs." Recommended as a prominent member of a great national party, inspired by its traditions, devoted to its principles. All through our history these have been the qualifications of men elected to the Presidency. Mr. Ford does not possess them, and he is not a member of any party now in existence, or inspired by its traditions. His nomination would be an unprecedented change of party policy, and is not to be expected, and could be regarded only as an act of desperation that would alienate great numbers of the party, and result in defeat. No nominee ever won under such a handicap. Mr. Bryan lost three times with smaller disadvantages.

It is a popular idea that Mr. Ford could turn his business agents into a political machine for his campaign, but that may well be doubted. But he has much money he might set about on political channels. It would be carefully sought, but it is more than likely that little of it would ever get where it would count for much in influencing voters.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

THE DEADLY CROSSING PROBLEM

Railroad managers are in despair over the reckless disregard of driver and the apparent disregard of many motorists for the lives of others. Auto accidents at railroad crossings are increasing 100 per cent on the average each year. They present a most serious problem, both to the public and the railroads.

It has been proved by tests that 50 per cent of the auto drivers do not look both ways on approaching a railroad crossing.—James-town Alert.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mister Cardinal Bird flew out of the magnolia tree and Misses Cuckoo and Bird. After him, her wings flashing like red and green in the sunlight. Next came the Twins, not flying, but walking faster than any little boy or girl ever walked before, in their magic shoes.

They were on their way to an "old" under tree in Dixie Land where Misses Warbler was sitting on her nest.

Misses Warbler was as cross as Tweedle Dum because somebody had laid an extra egg in her nest and expected her to hatch it. She was telling people that Misses Cuckoo had done it.

So now they were on their way to Misses Warbler's nest to find out all about it.

The minute Misses Warbler saw them she began to call out. "Here she comes! Here comes that lazy Misses Cuckoo, who won't build her own nest and who expects other people to bring up her children! Have you anything to say for yourself, Misses Cuckoo?"

"I've been trying to say something all along," said gentle Misses Cuckoo, but everybody talks so much. I haven't had a chance. You're mistaken. I do build my own nest. I know people say that I don't, but I do. I never laid an egg in anybody else's nest in my life. I have a cousin over in Europe (who is a disgrace to the family) and she does it, but American cuckoos are very different. We only try to be useful and eat up as many bugs as we can. And we sing to make people happy."

"Then if you have a nest, why aren't you on it?" asked Misses Warbler in surprise.

"That's another thing that we cuckoos do in Dixie Land," explained Misses Cuckoo. "Two or three mother cuckoos often have a partnership nest and take turns keeping the egg warm so the others can be out destroying bugs. It's my turn now and I must be going."

Just then a new voice called out, "Ha, ha, ha! I've been listening! That's my egg in your nest, Misses Warbler. I don't mind your knowing. And Misses Cow Bird flew away before anybody could say a word."

"Oh, we're awfully sorry!" apologized Misses Cuckoo. Warbler kindly to Misses Cuckoo.

"You're right we are, Misses Cuckoo," declared Mister Cardinal Bird. "And for one I am going to stop gossiping. Why didn't you tell us before?"

"My friends knew it," said Misses Cuckoo softly. "And when strangers jump at conclusions without knowing what they are talking about, it is usually best to let them alone. Goodbye, everybody. I must go now."

"Goodbye," called Nancy and Nick happily. "We'll tell the Fairy Queen all about you."

The Tangle

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, CONTINUED.

Here I am, little Marquise, talking to you entirely of my disappointments in some phases of John's career when I started to tell you about meeting Sydney Carton again. Meeting Sydney Carton, however, was a part of this surprising knowledge that I really did not know John, and that here was a man who knew him better than himself, who possibly did not always approve of him but who accepted him just as he was as a friend whom he would help and care for even when he knew he was being used by John to further his own ends.

After Jack hung up the telephone he turned to me and said, "At last, Leslie, old Syd has come to see us and he has invited us to dine with him and go to a show tonight."

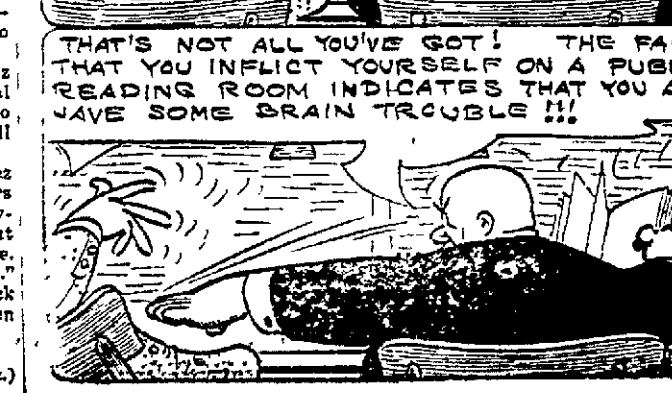

"Why didn't you invite him out here, Jack?" I asked.

"Simply because I knew that if you two old introspective philosophers got together you would go mooring around among ideas that would be hard for me to follow. I said I would not want to follow if I could. We can have a good dinner and see a good show. Syd is mighty good company when he doesn't take either you or himself too seriously. He is much like you, Leslie, in many ways."

"There must have been two or three different egos mixed up in it. They fight all the time. I know in my heart, dearest, that old Syd and you are both much better than I and yet I feel there must have been something about me that isn't wholly unattractive, because if there was you wouldn't bother with me now would you?"

And then, little Marquise, Jack Jacob.

THE FOOL

By Channing Pollock.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Dilly Gilliam, her mother, Mrs. Gilliam of "Gilliam Groceries, Inc.," with Mrs. Lenia Thornbury, a divorcee, are trimming a Christmas tree on Christmas eve in the vestry of the Church of the Nativity, a fashionable church of New York. Mrs. J. Orson Tice, wealthy, and a society leader, comes in with Jerry Goodkind, a graduate of the University of Chicago, who is engaged to marry the assistant rector of the church, in bad favor because of his radical sermons.

Dr. Wadham, the rector, drops in to attend a meeting of the wardens. Mr. Barnaby is sexton of the church.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"We didn't know you were back," Mrs. Tice returned the bow with awkward reverence.

"I didn't know you'd been away, doctor," Jerry said.

"Ten days," the rector explained, extending a pudgy hand, "attending the conference on the proper use of eucharistic candles. It's a subject on which I feel rather strongly."

He turned to the bearded tree upon which Mrs. Barnaby had been working diligently. "And what a beautiful tree! The star lights up, I suppose."

"We have hopes," said Dilly skeptically.

"Don't let me interrupt—I've only dropped in to keep an appointment with the wardens."

"We're all through," said Mrs. Gilliam, dropping her hands, "except for putting these gifts under the tree. Miss Jewett will be in a minute with the rest. The star is real imitation diamonds. A gift from Mrs. Tice."

"Speaking of gifts, doctor—" interrupted Mrs. Tice, advancing.

"Yes, dear lady," said the rector complacently.

"My husband wanted me to have a little talk with you about his check. You know, he promised $5000 to beautify the parlor of the parish house."

"Oh, yes," said Dr. Wadham, shifting his hand to his chin in a gesture that was a sub-conscious move of self-defense when he sensed "trouble."

"And since then—well, frankly, doctor, John was very much upset about last Sunday's sermon. Mr. Gilchrist preached from the text about the rich man entering the kingdom of heaven."

"Always a trifle dangerous," agreed the doctor, "but I am sure if he were directing all his remarks at John. We're in the first pew, you know, and John says he doesn't like to complain, but there's getting to be altogether too much of this—bohemianism. John says the preachers are more than half to blame for the present social unrest. I agree that some of the sermon was positively insulting."

"Mr. Gilchrist is young," the rector interposed.

"Gilchrist is a nut," Jerry snorted.

"Of course, what John objected to was the reference to rents—to charging clerks and bookkeepers more for the rent of their houses than for the rent of their own."

"I don't see how that concerns you," he answered brazenly.

"It proves you don't love me," she said.

"I want you, and I'm offering marriage to you," he pointed out.

"You haven't said one word of love."

"I've said 'What's the use bluffing? I'm no movie hero—and no crazy dreamer. I'm a little shop-worn, perhaps—maybe a little soiled—but I'm sane and I'm solvent. You're good-looking and smart, and a lady. You'll help my standing and I'll help your credit. For the rest—we needn't bother each other too much. What do you say?"

She turned on him.

"I think it's—revoltingly sordid!" Jerry smiled his cold smile.

"All right," he retorted. He looked at his watch, gathered up his cane and hat, moved toward the door.

"DEMONS" GO TO FARGO DAY AHEAD OF GAME

Will Practice on Agricultural College Field Friday Afternoon, Play Saturday

FARGO IN GOOD SHAPE

Team Which Contests Bismarck's Right to Finals to Put up Strongest Lineup

The Bismarck high school "Demons" will leave Friday morning on Northern Pacific train No. 2 for Fargo, where on Saturday afternoon at 1:45 p. m. the team will meet Fargo high school's "Midgits" for the right to enter the final game for the state high school football championship.

The local team, by leaving here Friday morning, will have an opportunity for practice Friday afternoon on the Agricultural college gridiron, where the game will be played. The exact number of men to be taken to Fargo has not yet been determined.

The local high school students probably will have a rally at assembly tomorrow morning to cheer the team on.

The "Demons" are going into the game with Fargo determined to avenge last year's defeat in Bismarck in the final game for the state championship. The hope on the two teams is fairly even, perhaps a shade to Fargo, but with "Demons" having made steady improvement all during the season the local supporters expect the team to return victorious if it plays in top form all during the game.

Fargo Beat Oakes.

Fargo won the championship of the southeastern part of the state by defeating Oakes, 22 to 9. Oakes defeated Valley City high school by a more impressive score than Bismarck, which won a 7 to 6 victory over the Valley City team in the first game of the season. The local team has made great improvement since the first game of the season.

Minot and Grafton high school teams will meet to settle the supremacy in the northern part of the state. The game is unsatisfactory to both teams, Minot having desired to play Bismarck and Grafton to play Fargo.

The decision in arranging the championship contests is a repetition of difficulties last year. After B. C. Tighe, of Fargo, president of the board, had announced that Bismarck and Fargo would play another member of the board said that the matter was undecided and Bismarck would probably play Minot. It was not until 3:30 p. m. yesterday that local officials knew definitely that Bismarck would meet Fargo.

L. W. Upshaw of Jamestown, who has refereed many games in Bismarck, will head the list of officials for Saturday's games. A big crowd is expected for Fargo high is backing the "Midgits" to the limit.

Fargo Ready.

The Fargo team reported to Coach "Lit" Busness in fine shape after the clash with Oakes at Walperton Saturday. Chaney was the only member of the squad who appeared to be bruised to any extent, and all his injuries are minor affairs.

Coach Busness declared that he was satisfied with the Midgits showing Saturday, but would have been better pleased had the men handled the ball in better shape. Numerous fumbles marred the Midgits' play, and took them out of scoring position twice early in the game. Six or seven extra footballs will be tossed out today and ball handling will be emphasized in every practice session this week.

Fisher In Good Shape.
While Captain Waldo Fisher will be unable to remove the cast from his wrist this week, the Midgits captain will be able to play during the entire contest with Bismarck. Fisher played the entire first half against Oakes and performed in a sensational manner, despite his handicap. The chances are good that the injured member will be entirely healed by Saturday, but the cast will not be removed.

QUESTION

A claim that in a big eastern college game some years ago in which a goal from field was attempted, the ball carried a long distance, then struck in front of the goal posts, about five yards short of carrying over the crossbar. The moment the ball struck the ground it seemed the kick had failed of its purpose. On the first bound it carried over the goal post and the goal from field was allowed. B claims that such a thing never happened and that it should not have been allowed if it did. Is A or B correct? If a player should attempt a goal from the field, and it is apparent the kick was falling short, only to have it strike an opponent and pass over the crossbar, is it legal?

ANSWER

is correct in his claim as to a kick striking the ground and bounding over the goal post in a big eastern game. It seems to me that the claim figured in the contest. As to the rule relative to a goal from the field was not very definite at the time and simply read that the ball must pass over the cross-bar of the opponent's goal. Unless I am mistaken this play caused a change in the wording of the rule. It is now very explicit and says: "In no case shall a goal count if the ball, after leaving the kicker's foot, touches the ground before passing over the cross-bar or goal posts. On the other play the rule is very definite, saying that if the ball strikes an opponent and then passes over the cross-bar, it shall count as a goal."

In a Disused Mail Box

By ANTHONY REIMERT

Ackerman held a prominent position in the town at the time. He had a wife and two grown daughters, as well as a fine home. He was in good business standing. Why a man in this position should have chosen to make such a test cannot be ascertained. Perhaps Ackerman had been brooding. At any rate, he had been worrying over a lot of little things, though his financial standing was as good as ever.

"May," he said to his wife, "I'm ruined."

"What do you mean, Charles?" "Everything I've got is gone. The house is mortgaged and will have to be sold. We'll have to send the girls out to work and take a single room in town."

May flew into a frenzy, and Ackerman smiled grimly to himself. He had proved that one, at least, of the persons who should have stood by him was composed of pretty poor clay.

She told him that she was going to leave him. If she had to live under those conditions she would get a position with the girls, and he could pick up his business and then she'd see whether they'd return to him.

Dorothy came in fuming. "You mean to say I can't go to college?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid not. You'll have to go through a business course and take a position as a typist."

Dorothy covered her father with opprobrium, and finally flounced out of the room. And Ackerman smiled again. He had never had much faith in Dorothy.

Della was different. Della was his favorite. Della took the news more calmly.

"I think it's a rotten shame, Daddy," she said, "and I'm quite ready to go to work."

"Will you stay with me, dear?" asked Ackerman.

Della promised she would, but a day or two later she told him that she was going to join her mother and sister in sharing an apartment they had taken in town.

May absolutely refused to live with her husband. She said he had caused her too much humiliation. Let him make money again, and then she would see whether she was willing to come back to him.

To all which Ackerman smiled interiorly. But his test had unexpected results from other quarters. In the first place, although his business was 20 miles away from the small town whence he commuted, in some mysterious manner the news got about, and a shoal of creditors came down upon him.

When Ackerman had begun his test, he had meant to keep it up for about 24 hours and then tell his wife and daughters the truth. But May had apparently spread the news everywhere out of sheer disloyalty. It was strange how different the attitude of the local people suddenly became.

The bank demanded that Ackerman take up a certain note immediately. The very grocer refused to give more credit. And Ackerman found that his old friends showed a tendency either to cut him or to have an important appointment when they met him.

Pride kept him on his course. What he had started as a grim test became a reality. He arranged for the sale of his house, he gave his wife a thousand dollars which he told her he had saved from the wreck, and he watched her depart. She and the girls went malignantly—even Della, though she cried at the end.

Left alone, Ackerman took a room at a boarding house and reviewed his situation. He decided that May and the girls were not worth troubling about further. He sold his business on the nail, and found himself with just $10,000 in the world.

He deposited this sum in another bank, and then sent a check for it to his wife, together with a letter explaining the circumstances. It was a bitter letter, and he did not realize that he had expected too much of human nature. After he had written it he blew his brains out. This caused a considerable stir in the town. Ackerman's wife and daughters appeared in deep mourning for six months after the funeral.

But Ackerman's $10,000 still remains in the bank among the unclaimed funds, for Ackerman posted the letter in a disused mail-box. (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Live Opportunities For You

"Opportunity knocks but once."

So said the sage. But don't you believe it. It isn't so.

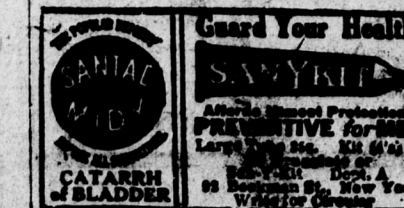

Opportunity knocks every day of your life. Every advertisement in this paper is brimful of opportunity for some one. Many of them are written with you in mind. They offer you opportunities to save time, money and effort—opportunities to surround yourself with comforts and conveniences—opportunities to eat better, sleep better, dress better and live better.

You would live in ignorance of these opportunities were it not for advertising. Somebody might be selling a new, better and more economical food; or a utensil that would add immeasurably to your comfort and well-being; or some better material for making shoes or clothing—but you would never know it.

Modern advertising is a boon. It keeps information up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitably, happy and useful lives in this age of rapid-fire progress.

Every advertisement in this paper is a real opportunity.

Don't let it knock in vain

Thought He Got Even

By CHARLES E. BAXTER

Dobb was still standing with the revolver in his hand, paralyzed with terror, when the neighbors found him. Leeson was lying huddled up on the seat of his rig, dead, a bullet from Dobb's weapon in his heart.

Sitting, crouching, rather than lying, he was huddled over the front of the vehicle, and his hands clutched the reins tightly, as if they had contracted spasmodically at the moment of his death. And there stood Dobb.

It was a sparsely settled agricultural community. The nearest neighbor was a quarter of a mile away—old Evan Pim. It was Pim and his sons, Charles and Ewart, who found Dobb standing so stupidly there. It was all they could do to induce him to return inside his house. There Dobb remained in a sort of trance. "I'm glad," was all that he would say. "I'm glad."

Nobody was sorry for Leeson. Leeson was a notorious money-lender. He had half the township in pawn, for times were bad and the land was stubborn. He had had Dobb at his mercy and was going to foreclose. Dobb had written him a note daring him to come and see him.

A foolish note, and Leeson, who was no coward, had taken up the challenge. Leeson was a nervous, excitable man with a chronic heart complaint, and a poor digestion. Half his cruelties were the result of this indigestion. He would fly up in the air at the least thing. He had immediately harnessed his horses and driven over to the Dobb place.

Mrs. Dobb had come out and begged Leeson to return, but Leeson had not said a word, but sat in the rig, waiting for Dobb. Dobb burst from the house, abused Leeson, and opened fire on him. He had fired six times, and only the single bullet had found its mark.

Leeson had died without a word, and it looked very bad, indeed, for Dobb. It was a hanging state, and the farmer-jurymen, much as they had detested Leeson, were not likely to exculpate Dobb. Then there was Dobb's challenge. That was the worst thing of all. That showed premeditation.

Dobb was brought under guard to the inquest. The courtroom was packed. The minute the judge had taken his place Dobb arose.

"I killed him," he began.

"You d—n fool!" whispered his lawyer, tugging at his coat, but in vain.

Then, inasmuch as defense was to be temporary insanity, he sat down himself, hoping all would be for the best, and that Dobb would make a clear impression of insanity upon the court.

"I killed him," shouted Dobb. "He was going to sell me up and turn me and mine out into the road to starve."

"Sit down!" called the judge. "You will be heard at the proper time."

"No time like this," yelled Dobb. "I want to go to the gallows. I don't want no palter. There ain't no call for it. The man was skunk, and his time was come. That's all there was to it."

"If you don't sit down and be silent, you'll be removed," said the judge.

Dobb was pulled back and the evidence began. It was shown how Dobb was found at the door of his house with the weapon in his hand. The bullet that had been extracted from Leeson's body fitted it. It looked bad for Dobb.

Murchison, the medical examiner, was called. "You performed an autopsy on the body of the deceased," asked the judge.

"Yes, your honor."

"What, in your opinion, was the cause of death?"

"Heart disease," replied Murchison.

"You mean—induced by the bullet?"

"No, heart disease. The strain of the approaching interview was probably too much for Leeson. He was dead long before the prisoner's bullet struck him. The horses must have stopped at the door of their own accord. Dobb fired at a corpse."

Dobb stood up in the midst of the sensation.

"You're a liar," he howled. "I killed him—darn you, you want to rob me of getting even with a skunk like that! I killed him!"

"You will return a verdict in accordance with the evidence," said the magistrate to the jury.

"I killed him," whispered Dobb, as his wife led him away.

LARGE SUPPLIES OF COTTON EXPECTED FROM THE SUDAN

Manchester, Nov. 7.—The growing of the American type of cotton in the Gezira area of the Sudan is developing rapidly and the output next year, it is estimated, will be double that of last year, while in 15 years time the Sudan will be producing a million bales of cotton a year. These statements were made recently in London by Major-General Sir L. O. F. C. Stack, Governor General of the Sudan, who explained that the increased production would result from new development work, including the construction of a dam across the Nile which would bring an additional 30,000 acres of cotton under cultivation.

An annual rainfall of 452 inches was recorded on the summit of Mount Waialeale, Kauai, Hawaiian Islands, in 1922.

The Filipinos have the last public holiday in the year. It is Rizal Day, celebrated Dec. 30.

"DEMONS" GO TO FARGO DAY AHEAD OF GAME

Will Practice on Agricultural College Field Friday Afternoon, Play Saturday

FARGO IN GOOD SHAPE

Team Which Contests Bismarck's Right to Finals to Put up Strongest Lineup

The Bismarck high school "Demons" will leave Friday morning on Northern Pacific train No. 2 for Fargo, where on Saturday afternoon at 1:45 p. m. the team will meet Fargo high school's "Midguts" for the right to enter the final game for the state high school football championship.

The local team, by leaving here Friday morning, will have an opportunity for practice Friday afternoon on the Agricultural college gridiron, where the game will be played. The exact number of men to be taken to Fargo has not yet been determined.

The local high school students probably will have a rally at assembly tomorrow morning to cheer the team on.

The "Demons" are going into the game with Fargo determined to avenge last year's defeat in Bismarck in the final game for the state championship. The game on the two teams is fairly even, perhaps a shade to Fargo, but with "Demons" having made steady improvement all during the season the local supporters expect the team to return victor if it plays in top form all during the game.

Fargo Best Oakes.

Fargo won the championship of the southeastern part of the state by defeating Oakes, 22 to 9. Oakes defeated Valley City high school by a more impressive score than Bismarck, which won a 7 to 6 victory over the Valley City team in the first game of the season. The local team has made great improvement since the first game of the season.

Minot and Grafton high school teams will meet to settle the supremacy in the northern part of the state. The game is unsatisfactory to both teams, Minot having desired to play Bismarck and Grafton to play Fargo.

The indecision in arranging the championship contests is a repetition of difficulties last year. After B. C. Tighe of Fargo, president of the board, had announced that Bismarck and Fargo would play another member of the board said that the matter was undecided and Bismarck would probably play Minot. It was not until 3:30 p. m. yesterday that local officials knew definitely that Bismarck would meet Fargo.

L. W. Upshaw of Jamestown, who has refereed many games in Bismarck, will head the list of officials for Saturday's games. A big crowd is expected for Fargo high is backing the "Midguts" to the limit.

Fargo Ready.

The Fargo team reported to Coach "Litz" Ruesch in fine shape after the clash with Oakes at Wahpeton Saturday. Chaney was the only member of the squad who appeared to be bruised to any extent, and all his injuries are minor affairs.

Coach Ruesch declared that he was satisfied with the Midgut showing Saturday, but would have been better pleased had the men handled the ball in better shape. Numerous fumbles marred the Midguts' play, and took them out of scoring position twice early in the game. Six or seven extra yardage gains will be tossed out today and ball handling will be emphasized in every practice session this week.

Fisher In Good Shape.

While Captain Waldo Fisher was unable to remove the cast from his wrist this week, the Midgut captain will be able to play during the entire contest with Bismarck. Fisher played the entire first half against Oakes and performed in a sensational manner, despite his handicap. The chances are good that the injured member will be entirely healed by Saturday, but the cast will not be removed.

QUESTION

A claim that in a big eastern college game some years ago in which a goal from field was attempted, the ball carried a long distance, then struck in front of the goal posts, about five yards short of carrying over the crossbar. The moment the ball struck the ground it seemed the ball had failed of its purpose. On the first bound it carried over the crossbar and the goal from field was allowed. B claims that such a thing never happened and that it should not have been allowed if it had. A or B correct? If a player attempts a goal from the field, and the ball is apparent the kick was failing, is it legal only to have it strike an opponent and pass over the crossbar?

ANSWER

It is correct in his claim as to a ball striking the ground and bounding over the goal post in a big eastern game. It seems to me that the question figured in the contest. As to the rule relative to a goal from the field was not very definite at that time and simply read that the

MR. WOO FLING LUMM, He Flings a Nasty Pass

WOO FLING LUMM

One of the most promising young footballers in the Chicago district is Woo Fling Lumm, or Charley Lumm, to give him his real name. Lumm is a full-blooded Chinese and is the star of the Tilden High School eleven. No better handler of the forward pass has been developed in Chicago's high school circles this season.

ball must pass over the cross-bar of the opponent's goal. Unless I am mistaken this play caused a change in the wording of the rule. It is now very explicit and says: "In no case shall a goal count if the ball, after leaving the kicker's foot, touches the ground before passing over the cross-bar or goal posts. On the other play the rule is very definite, saying that if the ball strikes an opponent and then passes over the cross-bar, it shall count as a goal."

In a Disused Mail Box

By ANTHONY REIMERT

Ackerman held a prominent position in the town at the time. He had a wife and two grown daughters, as well as a fine home. He was in good business standing. Why a man in this position should have chosen to make such a test cannot be ascertained. Perhaps Ackerman had been brooding. At any rate, he had been worrying over a lot of little things, though his financial standing was as good as ever.

"Mar," he said to his wife, "I'm ruined."
"What do you mean, Charley?"
"Everything I've got is gone. The house is mortgaged and will have to be sold. We'll have to send the girls out to work and take a single room in town."

May flew into a frenzy, and Ackerman smiled grimly to himself. He had proved that one, at least, of the persons who should have stood by him was composed of pretty poor clay.

She told him that she was going to leave him. If she had to live under those conditions she would get a position with the girls and he could pick up his business and then she'd see whether they'd return to him.

Dorothy came in fuming. "You mean to say I can't go to college?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid not. You'll have to go through a business course and take a position as a typist."

Dorothy covered her father with opprobrium, and finally flounced out of the room. And Ackerman smiled again. He had never had much faith in Dorothy.

Della was different. Della was his favorite. Della took the news more calmly.
"I think it's a rotten shame, Daddy," she said, "and I'm quite ready to go to work."

"Will you stay with me, dear?" asked Ackerman.

Della promised she would, but a day or two later she told him that she was going to join her mother and sister in sharing an apartment they had taken in town.

May absolutely refused to live with her husband. She said he had caused her too much humiliation. Let him make money again, and then she would see whether she was willing to come back to him.

To all which Ackerman smiled interiorly. But his test had unexpected results from other quarters. In the first place, although his business was 20 miles away from the small town whence he commuted, in some mysterious manner the news got about, and a school of creditors came down upon him.

When Ackerman had begun his test, he had meant to keep it secret for about 24 hours and then tell his wife and daughters the truth. But May had apparently spread the news everywhere out of sheer disloyalty. It was strange how different the attitude of the local people suddenly became.

The bank demanded that Ackerman take up a certain note immediately. The very grocer refused to give more credit. And Ackerman found that his old friends showed a tendency either to cut him or to have an important appointment when they met him.

Pride kept him on his course. What he had started as a grim jest became a reality. He arranged for the sale of his house, he gave his wife a thousand dollars which he told her he had saved from the wreck, and he watched her depart. She and the girls went malignantly—even Della, though she cried at the end.

Left alone, Ackerman took a room at a boarding house and reviewed his situation. He decided that May and the girls were not worth troubling about further. He sold his business on the nail, and found himself with just $10,000 in the world.

He deposited this sum in another bank, and then sent a check for it to his wife, together with a letter explaining the circumstances. It was a bitter letter, and he did not realize that he had expected too much of human nature. After he had written it he blew his brains out. This caused a considerable stir in the town. Ackerman's wife and daughters appeared in deep mourning for six months after the funeral.

But Ackerman's $10,000 still remains in the bank among the unclaimed funds, for Ackerman posted the letter in a disused mail-box. (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)

Live Opportunities For You

"Opportunity knocks but once."

So said the sage. But don't you believe it. It isn't so.

Opportunity knocks every day of your life. Every advertisement in this paper is brimful of opportunity for some one. Many of them are written with you in mind. They offer you opportunities to save time, money and effort—opportunities to surround yourself with comforts and conveniences—opportunities to eat better, sleep better, dress better and live better.

You would live in ignorance of these opportunities were it not for advertising. Somebody might be selling a new, better and more economical food; or a utensil that would add immeasurably to your comfort and well-being; or some better material for making shoes or clothing—but you would never know it.

Modern advertising is a boon. It keeps information up to date on the many things we need in order to live profitably, happy and useful lives in this age of rapid-fire progress.

Every advertisement in this paper is a real opportunity.

Don't let it knock in vain

NEW SPIRIT STIRS YOUNG MEN OF SOVIET

Youths of Russia Resemble Those of the U. S. Except For Clothes and Speech

COUNTRYSHOW ADVANCE

Russians of Past Were Timid in Demanding Their Rights From the World

Moscow, Russia, Nov. 7.—An eighteen year old boy of the coming Russian generation boarded the Riga-Moscow express at a wayside station the other day, and drew the interested attention of a carload of foreign passengers. He was freckle-faced, smiling, energetic, bragging and full of nationalism, and he seemed to typify an important element that, in recent years, has come out of the crucible in which the present day leaders of Russia are mixing their international chemicals.

Change this lad's Russian blouse for a suit of the "college clothes" extensively advertised in America; his round-necked hair cut for the prevailing style across the sea, his soft peasant accent for slang-sprinkled United States, and he might have been an American boy boasting of his own home town, his own state, and the U. S. A. in general.

The Russian youth was a railroad guard. The locomotive on his train, built by Russians ten years ago and repaired by Russians a few weeks before, was better than any locomotive ever built abroad, its drive-wheels higher, and its speed surely greater. His train was cleaner, his railway administration was better, his country's crops best, his country's future the rosier.

Forced On People
The determination of Peter the Great back in 1700 forced upon his people an acceptance of the idea that the accomplishments of western civilization were superior to their own. This thought lived on a long time, for up to six years ago, before the recent revolution, Russians, particularly the educated young, were inclined to swallow without question the claims of foreign civilization to superiority. They were timid violets in the field of nationalism, shyly offering Russian art as an offset to the more practical accomplishments of the Germans, English, Americans and French.

In 1917 the Russian Soviet government set out to establish a spirit of internationalism throughout Russia and the world at large, and the Third International is still preaching the Utopia of an international brotherhood, attainable by a revolutionary proletarian dictatorship.

This young railroad guard is a product of the last revolution. Many thousands like him may be found throughout Russia today. Perhaps they have absorbed some inkling of internationalism from the Third International, but to more than one observer of Russia they seem to be red-blooded, enthusiastic nationalists, and nothing else. The "Red Army" to them means the Russian army; the "Red Fleet" means the Russian fleet, and the "Red Air Service" means Russian aviation.

FIND WOMAN'S CHARRED BODY

Police in Alabama Seeking to Solve Mystery

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 7.—Officials working on the mystery in connection with the finding of a charred body of a woman in a negro church building which burned last week have announced that they have today possible clue on which to work today with the arrest here last night of Jack Johnson who was lodged in the city jail on a dangerous and suspicious charge. According to police when he was arrested in a rooming house he had newspaper clippings giving accounts of the case and on the back of the card was the name of a young woman reported missing since the night of the church burning.

Although Tuscaloosa officials say the identity of the victim has not been established, Chief Deputy Sheriff Henry Hill, Jefferson county who returned from Tuscaloosa yesterday morning insists that the name of the woman is known although there are other points to be investigated before he can make known his findings. Alf Winchester, who was arrested in connection with the case Sunday, maintains his innocence. His preliminary trial is being arranged. He is now in the Tuscaloosa county jail. The body of the woman in the church showed that the skull had been fractured and the ribs fractured. Officials are confident the fire was for the purpose of hiding the murder.

WOULD BAR BADGE TACKLE

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Teaching swimming to a boy's Y. M. C. A. class to earn money for university expenses today was the basis of a charge of professionalism against one of the star tackles of the western conference. The protest is made against Ed C. Gandy, tackle of the University of Wisconsin, taken, just on the eve of the annual Wisconsin-Illinois game Saturday. The protest, if allowed, means that he will be barred from all athletics on the ground that he was a paid coach.

incident a year ago, when, as the Badgers prepared to meet the Illinois, a protest came from Illinois quarters which disqualified Murray, another star Wisconsin tackle. This protest brought out the wrath of "Big John" Richards, then Wisconsin coach, and almost resulted in a severance of athletics relations between the two universities.

The attempt to have Gerber ruled out of competition emanates from a different source, according to reliable reports here. Major John Griffith, western conference athletic commissioner, however, refused to reveal the source of the protest.

RICHHOLT BOYS WIN BIG RELAY FROM MANDAN

Carry Note Supposed to Contain Message from Mandan to Bismarck Mayor

The Bismarck Boys Athletic association on staged its first cross country relay race yesterday afternoon. The relay race started at the N. P. depot, Mandan, and finished at the N. P. depot, Bismarck, a distance of six miles. Twelve boys constituted a team each boy running half a mile. There were four teams representing the Wm. Moore, Richholt, St. Mary's schools, and the High School Freshmen. The first runner of each team starting at Mandan carried a kit bag, which was supposed to contain a message from the mayor of Mandan to Mr. Lenhart, mayor of Bismarck, the object being to see which team would first deliver its message. The message was delivered in 33 minutes and 50 seconds by the Richholt team, which beat out the Wm. Moore by four or five inches only. In the early part of the race the Richholt gained quite a lead but determined effort on the part of Doug Yeater and Buster Rosson brought Harlow Griffin, Wm. Moore's last man, to within twenty or twenty-five yards of Landers, Richholt's finish man. With a splendid burst of speed Griffin caught his man at the International building, from there in to the finish it was a great battle. Landers winning by a few inches.

The teams were—Richholt—Harold Yeasty, Elmer Benser, Jim Coleman, Terry Conway, Harold Lash, Bill Lengenfelder, Floyd Sunderland, Ross Danley, Earl Ode, Fred Anderson, Gord Landers and Fred Landers. Wm. Moore—Spencer Sell, Jno. Russell, Maynard Peterson, Odean Ward, Neil York, Ralph Stencheol, Ben Jacobson, Andy Berth, Doug Yeater, Hy Brown, Buster Rosson and Harlow Griffin. St. Mary's—Andy Hummel, Jno. Neighbauer, Cris Jungla, Alex Neighbauer, Mat Hummel, Ed Sprigg, Leo Payzano, Vic Cervinski, Adam Brown, Jno. Rheorick, Wend Schneider, Joe Neighbauer. Freshmen—Ed O'Hara, Jim Gorman, Jim Slattery, Lawrence Ferris, Paul Headstrum, Bob Zeer, St. Mandigo, Carol Cruise, Chas. Butler, Elbert Watkins and Hy Danrot.

CITY COUNCIL Rewards Heroism

Long Beach, Calif., Nov. 7.—For attacking a mad dog on a crowded downtown street here and choking it with her bare hands after it had bitten several persons and was attempting to bite others Mrs. Grace Newell has been awarded $234 by the city council for damages to her clothing and for doctor bills.

Mrs. Newell asked the city to pay $125 in doctor bills and $106 for clothing damaged. The city auditor objected but members of the council held that the municipality was under moral obligation to the woman and over-ruled the objection.

ROTARIANS IN TRIBUTE AT MEETING

Silent Appreciation of Memory of Mrs. E. G. Patterson Is Expressed

BANNER ATTENDANCE

Rotarians in session at the McKenz hotel this noon, paid silent tribute to the memory of Mrs. E. G. Patterson who passed away early this morning. Except for two verses of America there was no singing program, and Henry Duemeland, president of Rotary, instructed the resolutions committee to draw up suitable expressions of sympathy and forward them to the bereaved husband. Mr. Duemeland explained the late Mrs. Patterson's interest as well as that of the husband in preparing for Rotary during the early days of its existence in Bismarck. Before luncheon all Rotarians stood in silence for a moment in respect to the deceased. A banner attendance characterized Rotary today the average being more than ninety-three percent. Next week when Governor Nestos addresses the club has been set for 100 percent week.

Dr. E. P. Quain was the chief speaker of the day and urged the necessity of greater preparedness for the nation's defense. He told of his recent trip to Detroit to attend the officers' reserve conference which he declared the utter lack of preparedness and the indifference of Congress and the people generally were commented upon and deplored. He urged every member to write his congressman to support the plan of the war department to strengthen the nation's defenses.

Upon request of Rev. George Newcomb the following Rotarians were named to assist in a drive to raise $1,000 for support of the Society for the Friendless: George Bird, Arthur Arnot, Bob Simpson, James Taylor and L. H. Richmond. The campaign is set for November 26.

The day's program was in charge of Fred Conklin and V. L. La Rose. Mr. Conklin presided.

Several birthdays were commemorated. James Taylor on behalf of Rotary presented Bob Webb with a suitable gift. George Bird late of the bachelor bloc gave a special gift to Bob.

Bob Simpson presented Will Lahr with a gift and best wishes of Rotary upon his birthday and George Duemeland's birthday was suitably noted by Hal Dobler.

Arthur Arnot spoke on principles of Rotary as they affect business, placing special emphasis upon the value of letter writing as a business asset.

T. R. Atkinson, head of the committee to secure closer cooperation between the schools and the public, stated that it was the plan of that committee to begin visits to the schools. A parent-teacher organization, he said, was also under consideration.

W. F. H. Burnett, a Dickinson Rotarian, spoke briefly on the Dickinson club and his impressions of the Bismarck organization.

Guests for the day were: Capt. Baird, Dickinson; W. F. Burnett, Dickinson; O. F. Woolrich, Minneapolis and Oliver Lundquist, assistant postmaster.

Violent Debates Enliven Meetings Of Jugoslavians

Belgrade, Nov. 7.—Summoned recently to consider minor taxation problems, the Jugoslavians Skupstina, or parliament, developed a stormy session far beyond the estimated limit of only a few uneventful days.

The Skupstina, with its representation of all classes in the state, furnishes a good picture of the population of Jugoslavia. Among the most outspoken members are peasants in native costume who take a prominent part in the stormy discussions. The Slovenian group had a lively passage at arms with the true, or "pravi" Serbians, the other day, when the Slovenian deputy Vretchko, complaining of the measures of repression adopted by the radical government, got up and announced that

HOMELESS JAPS SEEK MARRIAGE

Tokio, Nov. 7.—(Correspondence of the A. P.)—Matrimonial agencies which survived the earthquake and fire are being flooded with applications for husbands and wives.

Among the female applicants are hundreds of widows anxious to find life companions who will take care of them and their children. Hundreds of girls hardly 15 years of age who lost relatives in the disaster also have applied. Most of the male applicants are mechanics who make good wages.

ADVERTISERS LOOK TO LONDON London, Nov. 7.—Arrangements for the International Advertising Convention, to be held in London next July, and at which 2,000 delegates from America will be present, are already well advanced.

A national reception committee is in existence, together with a national sight-seeing committee. The delegates will, when the business of the convention is over, visit several centers of historic interest in Great Britain.

Every section of advertising, publishing, printing and selling is represented on the general committee.

life under Austria was much more livable than it is under Serbia. Yankovitch, the minister of communications, thereupon stirred up a storm by inviting Vretchko and his fellow Slovenians to emigrate to Austria if they did not like living in Serbia.

The opposition greeted the government's invitation with cat-calls and the slamming of desk-covers, while the Serbian radicals cheered loudly. The scene reminded one of the old days in the Austrian legislature, when the same radical battles were fought.

BOOZE TREATY IS APPROVED

London, Nov. 7.—The imperial conference of premiers has given final assent to the proposals for an agreement by which British vessels suspected of liquor running may be stopped and searched within an agreed distance off the American shore. The conference acted on the recommendation of the British foreign office and one of its own experts committee.

PUT PHILLIPS ON TRIAL SOON

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 7.—If the necessary arrangements can be completed, Philip E. Fox, publicly chief for the Ku Klux Klan, will be placed on trial next week for killing Capt. W. S. BRITISH SHIPS HALT RED SEA SLAVE TRAFFIC

War Did Not End Trade After War as Thought, It Is Contended

London, Nov. 7.—Although the slave trade is commonly supposed to have been suppressed all over the world, two British warships, the Celmatis and the Cornflower, have been engaged in suppressing this traffic in the Red Sea for the last two years. Not only have they succeeded in stopping most of the Red Sea slave trade, but they have also stopped gun-running which was occasionally attempted.

High prices are paid for slaves in this part of the world, who are generally captured from the coastal tribes and sold to the Arabs, who take their victims inland. A communication from a member of the crew of the Celmatis tells an interesting story:

"We had spent a period of two years in the Red Sea," he says, "witnessing very varied scenes of tropical life, and experiencing the almost intolerable heat of two summers. The duties of the two Red Sea sloops are primarily to frustrate the diabolical bartering of humans which unfortunately still continues to a much larger extent than one is led to believe."

"On one occasion and how was detained which had been thus trading, but it is to be regretted that the occupants successfully evaded capture, and carried away with them the gold they had received for their slaves. It was, however, an exciting incident, for when we first tried to board they opened fire on our whalers. This necessitated the latter returning to the ship, and we eventually fired about eight rounds at the escaping crew."

"On another occasion a show was captured full of slaves, boys and girls between the ages of seven and 17."

"It was heart rending to stand by and see the hungry mites ravenously attack the bread we gave them. The show's crew endeavored to escape by jumping overboard and swimming ashore but were successfully captured, and hopes are entertained that they got their full desserts."

ORPOSES MEYER WHEAT REMEDY

Fargo, Nov. 7.—The Mondell-Meyer proposed remedy for conditions in the hard spring wheat area is inadequate, Congressman George M. Young of the Second North Dakota Congressional district declared in a telegram to the Associated Press from Washington.

Congressman Young was a member of the Northwest Wheat Committee which conferred with President Coolidge and offered several plans for remedying the condition of wheat growers in the northwest.

Piles Can Be Cured Without Surgery

An instructive book has been published by Dr. A. S. McCleary, the noted rectal specialist of Kansas City. This book tells how sufferers from Piles can be quickly and easily cured without the use of knife, scissors, "hot" iron, electricity or any other cutting or burning method, without confinement to bed and no hospital bills to pay. The method has been a success for twenty-four years and in more than eight thousand cases. The book is sent post-paid free to persons afflicted with piles or other rectal troubles who clip this item and mail it with name and address to Dr. McCleary, D542 Parkway Sanitarium, Kansas City, Mo.

BIG PARADE IS PLANNED

Legion Will Celebrate Signing of War Armistice

Plans for a big celebration on Armistice Day are rapidly rounding into shape. Under the general plan of the American Legion committee, there will be a parade of ex-service men next Monday at 2 p. m., to be followed by a patriotic gathering in the city Auditorium, at which J. M. Devine will deliver an address. Armistice Day, Nov. 11, falls on Sunday this year but will be generally observed on Monday.
